YOUTHS IDENTIFIED AS 2 OF ROBBERS OF WELLSTON BANK

Isadore Londe, 19, and Elmer Runge, 21, Police Characters, Are Arrested in Courtroom.

IDENTIFICATIONS BY OFFICERS OF BANK

Both Deny Accusation — $22,000 Obtained in Hold-up by Six Men, Some Wearing Masks.

Two officers of the State Bank of Wellston, which was held up by six armed men and robbed of $22,000 at 10 a. m. last Friday, today identified Isadore Londe, 19 years old, of 4639 Evans avenue, and Elmer Runge, 21, of 720A North Fourteenth street, as two of the robbers.

Londe and Runge are police characters and were arrested in the courtroom in the Court of Criminal Correction by five detectives for questioning in connection with the bank robbery.

At Central Police Station they denied the charge and then were taken before the bank's officers, who said without hesitation that Londe and Runge were two of the robbers. The accused men again reiterated their denial.

Names of Officers Withheld.
The names of the bank officers who made the identification are being withheld by the police to preclude the possibility of intimidation by gangsters.

Why Londe and Runge were suspected of the robbery and how the identification was made are matters not disclosed by the police. Of the six robbers who took part in the hold-up, four or five were masked. A clue left by the robbers was a handkerchief on which was embroidered the letter "R."

Londe, at the age of 10, was sentenced to six years in a reform school for first degree robbery. He was released at the age of 14, and since then has been arrested 28 times on various charges, largely in the investigation of robberies, but never again convicted.

Runge Arrested 43 Times.
Runge has been arrested 43 times. He served two terms in the industrial school for delinquency; was fined $100 for violation of the Mann Act; was fined three times for traffic ordinance violations, and has frequently been taken up during robbery investigations.

He and Londe were in court today to answer to four charges against them of carrying concealed weapons.

Following the arrest and identification of these two men, detectives and police went to work on the robbery with renewed vigor and other arrests are imminent.

MRS. MIRIAM SPARKS BANISTER CELEBRATES 100TH BIRTHDAY

Calls of Friends Chief Event of Day — Shares Big Cake With Visitors.

Friends calling on Mrs. Miriam Sparks Banister on the occasion of her 100th birthday, today, found her much the same as she has been for several years past—cheerful, keenly aware of what is going on in the world, happily talkative, but somewhat inactive because of infirmities.

The chief celebration of the fete day will be the calls of her many friends. She often has callers at her home, 5161 Waterman avenue, where she lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Mann, but on birthdays the home is usually crowded with company. She has a good memory as to each of her friends.

There will be a big birthday cake of which the callers will partake. On it will be six candles. Mrs. Banister's "first 100" years having been eliminated as far as these waxen ornaments are concerned.

Simple living, without any unusual formulas, has been Mrs. Banister's key to long life. Of late years she has been virtually sightless. As told in the Post-Dispatch last January, she is a devotee of radio. She was born in Devonshire, England, March 19, 1817, coming to St. Louis in 1864. Her husband died in 1878.

DETECTIVE ACCUSED OF KIDNAPING FREED BY COURT

John F. Ellis Also Was Sutor of Daughter of Former U. S. Senator Culberson of Texas.
By the Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 19.—John F. Ellis, former private detective, who was accused of kidnaping Alex E. Robertson, a former gunner in the British Royal Artillery, and suing for the hand of Miss Mary Culberson, daughter of former United States Senator Culberson of Texas, was freed by the court today.

The kidnaping indictment was dismissed when the court was told that Robertson had refused to testify against Ellis, declaring he wished to avoid the publicity which would attend a trial.

The indictment of Ellis was brought about by Robertson's charge that the former had forced him to Bloomfield on the pretext that he was wanted in New York on a charge of stealing property of the British War Veterans' Association. Instead of taking him to New York, however, Robertson charged, Ellis took him to Boston and tried to place him on a steamer bound for Buenos Aires.

Mrs. Mary A. Andrews, an aunt with whom Robertson had lived, obtained his release after complaining to the British Embassy at Washington.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 19.—Orders by the Missouri Public Service Commission requiring interstate lines to stop at certain stations constitute a burden upon interstate commerce and are therefore invalid, the Supreme Court held today. The Missouri State courts had held the order did not interfere with interstate commerce.

The decision may have results in other states where the same question has been raised.

CHOKED TO DEATH BY DIAMOND

Girl, 5, Strangled When Gem She Tried to Swallow Enters Throat.
By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, March 19.—A Swiss dealer in precious stones named Dingler, while showing his 5-year-old daughter cases of jewels, was called to the telephone. When he returned he found the child choking. She had swallowed gems worth $100.

A doctor was called but the little girl had died, having been strangled by a diamond which entered the throat. An operation was necessary to extract the stone from the child's throat and stomach.

POLICE SAID TO KNOW WHO KILLED DOROTHY KEENAN

His Motive Declared to Have Been Vengeance — He Knew All There Was About Pretty Model.

"MARSHALL'S" AFFAIR COST HIM $10,000
None of Many Former Night Life Friends Attends Funeral of the "Broadway Butterfly."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 19.—Of all the host of gay and grim figures flitting across the purple path of Dorothy Keenan, found chloroformed Thursday in her apartment at 144 West Fifty-seventh street, the identity of the last and most important—the slayer—has been virtually established, it was learned at police headquarters today.

His arrest will cause no surprise to Broadway jazzmen familiar with the personal affairs of the dead girl, it was said. He has remained in the city ever since the murder. The police have not questioned him, as they wished to avoid exciting his suspicions until his actions could be observed. His motive was vengeance. The robbery was incidental. He knew all there was to know about the "Broadway Butterfly."

As for the so-called John Marshall and his secretary, the so-called Mr. Wilson, objects of the extraordinary solicitude of acting District Attorney Pecora, they are still immune from publicity. It is true, so far as the public knows, they were the last to see Miss Keenan alive, but Pecora declares "they are innocent of all knowledge of the crime." He won't tell.

Prosecutor Disputes Negro.
And meanwhile the reportorial and police investigations go on. Both of these have established one point. It is true.

John Thomas, negro elevator operator in the building where Miss Keenan lived, steadfastly insists Mr. Wilson was the only person he took down from Miss Keenan's apartment last Thursday morning. He didn't carry Mr. Marshall down, and he's willing to testify to that under oath. Pecora, however, is positive Thomas is mistaken. He says he has proof Mr. Marshall left the apartment and that Thomas carried him down. He refused to cite the proof.

It is curious to know just what it costs a tired business man to maintain an intrigue with one of the alleged exotic flowers of Manhattan's night life, consider the case of Mr. Marshall, who, Pecora admits yesterday, is a man of family. It has been established almost indisputably that he lives in Boston.

Marshall's little flyer into romance cost him precisely $10,000 in cash, in addition to gifts, according to information in Pecora's possession.

He met Miss Keenan a year ago—the circumstances are not explained—since then he has visited her 10 times, he told Pecora. It cost him just $1000 a visit. Marshall was quite madly infatuated. He was wont to refer to "My Dorothy" as his mistress. He says he has proof of love's 60-year-old dream. Miss Keenan, to quote Antoine Scharf, proprietor of a beauty parlor she visited, "was a bloated blonde."

Last Visit Together.
It was to the popping of champagne corks that the two had their last visit together. They had dinner in Miss Keenan's apartment. Marshall, preceded as always by the vigilant Wilson, departing about 8:30.

Again the story conflicts with that of Thomas, the elevator operator. Thomas says Marshall, Wilson and Miss Keenan returned about midnight and that he took them all up. Marshall and Wilson say they were not with Miss Keenan and do not know what she did between 8:30 and midnight.

Anyway, when Marshall and Wilson returned, Wilson remained in the apartment only a short time, leaving by the elevator about 12:30. They both say that Marshall left at 2 o'clock Thursday morning. Marshall met Wilson and the two went directly to their hotel.

Wilson, according to admissions to Pecora, acted as Marshall's confidential secretary, in a manner of speaking. He was the advance man, the bodyguard and the functionary in charge of the thousand and one.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL IS INJURED BY AUTO

Elmer E. McCaslin Suffers Fracture of Skull; Eleven Other Persons Hurt by Machines.

Elmer E. McCaslin, 60 years old, of 4152 Washington boulevard, principal of the Lafayette Public School, suffered a fracture of the skull when knocked down by an automobile driven by Harry A. Yesley of Ferguson, at 7 o'clock last night.

He was crossing Olive street about 50 feet west of Whittier street and had just stepped from behind a parked automobile when Yesley's car hit him. Yesley took him to the city hospital and later reported the accident to the police. Yesley said he was driving slowly and did not see McCaslin until the latter was directly in the path of his automobile.

Matt Reilly, 40, of 6161 Maple avenue, an engineer employed by the Laclede-Christy Fire Clay Co., Sulphur and Manchester avenues, suffered a fracture of the skull at 6 a. m. today when knocked down in front of the plant by an automobile driven by Eugene Milligan, 25, a machinist, of 2515 Greenwood avenue, Maplewood. Reilly had just crossed behind a street car.

Eleven other persons were injured, none seriously, in automobile accidents yesterday and last night. They were Miss Antonette Koenig, 2410A South Tenth street; Bernard Damm, 1907 Barmen avenue; Ernest Rountree, 3140 Olive street; Robert Wilson, 3641 Finney avenue; Henry Meyers, 4214 North Newstead street; Clarence Smith, 3013 Rutger street, and the following negroes: Casey Adams, 2602 Lawton avenue; Noble, Dora and William Tarrant, 6617 South Broadway, and Louis Evans, 717 North Compton avenue.

Joseph Pavlichich, 43 years old, a watchman for the American Car and Foundry Co., 3800 De Kalb street, died in the City Hospital today of a skull fracture, inflicted under circumstances which the police are investigating.

Mrs. Mary Hartman, 7338 Gravois avenue, told detectives Pavlichich was brought to her home yesterday morning in a taxi cab by two men. He was conscious and told her he had been in a fight the night before. He explained that a doctor had dressed the wound. After remaining at her home all day he lapsed into unconsciousness while preparing to leave and neighbors took him to the hospital.

AUSTRALIAN ACTRESS NAMED IN FARRAR SUIT

Lorna Ambler Alleged by Witnesses to Have Been Tellegen's Bungalow Mate.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 19.—Lorna Ambler, an Australian actress, today was named as the correspondent in the divorce suit which Geraldine Farrar is pressing against her actor-husband, Lou Tellegen.

Miss Ambler's name was brought into the case by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the diva, in examination of witnesses before Referee Thomas Mahoney.

Miss Ambler was described as 25 years of age, and strikingly beautiful. She spoke with a decidedly English accent, but in a pleasing tone, witnesses declared.

Witnesses testified to a summer alleged to have been spent by Tellegen and Miss Ambler at Long Beach, followed by lovemaking in an ordinaire New York rooming house, nightly walks through the Ghetto and tete-a-tetes at midnight suppers in out-of-the-way Italian restaurants.

W. R. Beers testified that late in June, 1921, he rented a bungalow at Long Beach to a man named Rankin, said to be Tellegen's secretary. Rankin, he said, spent several days there, and then Tellegen, whose identity then was unknown to Beers, arrived with a woman of striking appearance.

Identifies a Photograph.
Beers identified a photograph of Tellegen's alleged bungalow mate and then described how the couple had bathed, fished and boated together for a month at the seashore.

Then Louis Malthaner, a lawyer associated with Miss Farrar's counsel, and owner of a bungalow near that alleged to have been occupied by Tellegen, took the stand and described excursions which he said Tellegen and Miss Ambler had taken in his rowboat.

In August, 1921, the plaintiff's counsel sought to show, the scene shifted to a rooming house on West Thirty-seventh street, New York City, and for two months "The Great Lover" had to content himself with a shadowy vestibule.

Norman Fitzsimmons, a private detective, testified that in August Miss Ambler went to live in a studio apartment in this city, while the next month Tellegen opened an engagement at the Garrick Theater.

At that time, Fitzsimmons declared, Tellegen was friendly with another woman mentioned in testimony only as "P.L.," taking her to night, and kissing her good-night. After that, Fitzsimmons continued, Tellegen frequently would return to

U. S. AGENT TELLS OF MINGLING WITH THE COMMUNISTS

"K-97," Otherwise Francis Morrow, State's Star Witness in Trial of W. Z. Foster.

OUTSIDE AID TO THE STATE CHARGED
Walsh in Cross-Examination Tries to Bring Out That Burns Agency or Others Furnish Money.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 19.—"K-97," the Government agent who joined the Communist party and became a delegate to the national convention held in the sand dunes near here last summer, took the stand this afternoon as the State's star witness against William Z. Foster, charged with criminal syndicalism.

"K-97," whose real name is Francis Morrow, was known as Ashworth by his communist associates. At the convention, where all delegates used assumed names, he was called Day. Morrow told how he joined the party at Camden, N. J., in 1920, and described the groups, sections and districts into which the Communist organization was divided.

Morrow testified he was elected a delegate to the convention by District No. 3 of Philadelphia and Camden. He identified copies of the program of the Communist party.

Program Temporarily Ruled Out.
Efforts of the State to introduce the party program in evidence failed—for the time being, at least—after a long argument between Attorney Walsh and Assistant Attorney-General Smith. Smith had the witness swear to the veracity of his testimony.

Maurice Wolff, Government agent, was on the stand for the State today to tell of the finding of books and papers in the raid.

Among the State exhibits are copies of "The Defense of Terrorism" by Leon Trotsky; "Left Wing Communism and Infantile Disorder" and "Imperialism the Final Stage of Capitalism," both by Nikolai Lenin; "The Russian Revolution" and "The Great Steel Strike and Its Lessons," by Foster, and the report of the executive committee of the Third International by G. Zinoviev.

On cross-examination, Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Foster, asked Wolff if he was present when Jacob Spolsky, another department of Justice agent, beat Cyril Lambkin, one of the prisoners taken in the raid. Wolff denied any knowledge of prisoners being beaten.

Questions as to Financing.
Walsh asked Wolff about a meeting of the Berrien County Board of Supervisors last October which he attended with Max Burger, a department of Justice agent, and asked if Wolff had told the board the present trial would not cost the county a cent, because the funds to pay for it would come from some outside source, which he was not at liberty to disclose.

Wolff denied having made the statement, which Mr. Walsh read from an affidavit signed by a member of the board. The defense attorney attempted to ask if Burger had said anything along that line, but Judge Charles White sustained objections by the State.

The defense has intimated that an effort will be made to show that the W. J. Burns detective agency or some of its clients is furnishing the funds for the prosecution and has affidavits telling of efforts made by Congressman Ketchum to obtain financial support from the Federal Government without success. Affidavits allege that W. J. Burns, head of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, told Ketchum, according to his report, that the Government had no funds, but that the money would be forthcoming from some other source.

Bolt Weevil Killed by Blizard.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 19.—The February blizzard which overpowered most of the cotton belt is believed to have killed off a large proportion of bolt weevil which had gone into winter retirement, and it is the opinion of the Government's entomologists that during the initial period of production this year cotton planters will have a good chance of a heavy crop.

They will return to Bolling Field, Wash. One of the planes was equipped with special photographic apparatus. The trip was an experimental one.

MISSOURI BANKER, AFTER MUCH OVERTIME WORK, ENDS HIS LIFE
Secretary of Kirkville Institution Found Dead After Effort to Catch Up in Work.

By the Associated Press.
KIRKSVILLE, Mo., March 19.—Lonnie F. Gibbs, 35 years old, secretary of the Kirkville Trust Co., was found dead early today in the vault of the banking house, with all indications pointing to suicide. A revolver lay beside the chair in which the body was found in a sitting posture.

The president of the bank, E. P. Heiny, has been ill for months, and it is believed that overwork caused a mental breakdown which resulted in Gibbs taking his life. He had been working until late at night for weeks and had put in the day yesterday trying to catch up with his work. No statement has been issued by the bank.

GOVERNMENT WITNESS IN BOOTLEGGING CASE MURDERED
Agent Testifies Gary Man, Killed Last Week, Gave $500 to Mayor's Campaign Fund.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 19.—George Winkler, group chief of the prohibition enforcement agents in Indiana, testifying today at the Lake County liquor conspiracy trial, said he had been informed that Caspar Monti had contributed $500 to the campaign fund of Mayor Roswell O. Johnson of Gary. Monti, who was a principal witness for the Government, was killed last Monday. Winkler, in response to a question by United States Attorney Elliott, said Monti was murdered.

Winkler said his information regarding Monti's contribution came from Lewis E. Barnes, Lake County public leader. Both Johnson and Barnes are defendants in the conspiracy case. It is alleged by the Government that public officials accepted protection money from known liquor law violators and also had the support of bootleggers in political campaigns.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 19.—The French authorities at Essen have detained a member of Parliament, the district attorney and several bank directors following the killing of a French guard there yesterday, says a Berlin dispatch to the Central News.

By the Associated Press.
DUSSELDORF, March 19.—The killing of a French soldier and a German civilian at Essen and the announcement that the German mine owners had been allowed until April 15 to pay the 40 per cent coal tax was outstanding developments in the Ruhr situation over the week-end. The soldier was shot at the Essen Railway station. A German who endeavored to escape was wounded so badly that he died later. Three others were arrested on suspicion.

French headquarters have announced that the first of the penalties recently threatened, if the mine owners failed to pay the coal tax, was the withholding of licenses for the week-end. The soldier was shot at the Essen Railway station. A German who endeavored to escape was wounded so badly that he died later. Three others were arrested on suspicion.

LACK OF COAL EXPECTED TO BREAK DOWN GERMAN RESISTANCE IN THE RUHR

Observations by American Governmental Agents Say German Organization Genius Never Showed Better.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Conditions of the moment in Germany, according to late dispatches from American Governmental agents, point to the eventual breakdown of the German resistance to French pressure in the Ruhr Valley. Notwithstanding the elaborate and effective system of sabotage with which the Germans are fighting the occupation, it is expected by these observers that the Cuno Government, in the face of the superior force, will be compelled to signify a readiness to meet the French demand for a direct proposal regarding reparations payments.

The Ruhr occupation has shown itself to be fruitless as a means of collecting money on the reparations account. France, on going in, discovered that the purpose was to starve the German economy, and the result, therefore, is to bring from Germany some promise to pay.

In a military sense, Germany is impotent, but her policy of passive resistance, clashing against the hot determination of the Poincare Government to justify the costly adventure on the basis of the French people, has produced a warfare as tense and bitter as any ever waged.

American Describes Struggle.

The struggle, in the words of an American official with extensive opportunities for observation, is like that of two wrestlers, heavily laboring in a grapple for life. Whose breath will give out first is the question. On the basis of the reports mentioned it is this observer's belief, shared by increasing numbers in Governmental circles, that Germany will have to capitulate.

The organization of the German resistance, which has been shown in the manner in which they have met the French invasion. Either they were ready in advance with a perfected scheme of sabotage, or they organized their efforts with remarkable promptitude after the occupation began. The results indicate guidance from a central authority. For instance, the railway workers go out at some strategic point, no sooner are they back at work than a strike becomes effective at some other point. Thus without resort to a general strike, transportation in the district is effectively crippled from day to day.

Mediation to end an intolerable condition would be welcomed by both sides. The German Government, on the other hand, is not likely to accept mediation. Italy and Belgium, however, now appears, got more than they bargained for. Italy is running short of coal, while Belgium, completely humbled, is unable to do anything, after all, it was not better to exist.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF HARDING CANDIDACY CHALLENGE TO FOES

Daugherty Says Statement Was Issued to Let Republicans Know What Is Coming.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 19.—Why did Attorney General Daugherty make at this time announcement of the candidacy of President Harding for re-nomination when the Republican national convention does not meet for more than a year? The writer asked the Attorney General this question in a letter. His immediate reply was "to let the President's friends in the Republican party know what is coming and to challenge those who are not his friends."

It will be of interest also to the public to learn that Mr. Daugherty did not have any conversation with President Harding concerning the announcement which he made to the press on Saturday. Mr. Harding did not know until it until after the newspaper men had been in conference with the Attorney General. This does not mean that Mr. Harding withholds his approval. On the contrary, the plan to have Mr. Harding become a candidate for re-nomination was agreed upon a long time ago and this correspondent happens to know that the statement issued at Columbus by Daugherty last autumn predicting that Harding would be a candidate for re-nomination was made with the knowledge and approval of the President.

Friends Convinced Him.

Mr. Harding has not been giving much thought to politics since he started his vacation. The Attorney General says Mr. Harding is the kind of a man who never has and never will be a politician. He has been convinced in political matters. They have convinced him that it is to the best interest of the Republican party that he should again be a candidate.

All this was understood and discussed in a series of conferences which occurred before the President left for his vacation. It was understood that Mr. Harding would be a candidate for re-nomination. The President's friends in the Republican party were among those who participated in the discussions. They did not announce just when the announcement of the Harding candidacy should be made. But Attorney General Daugherty felt that the present was the most opportune time.

Daugherty was prompted by a desire to advise those Republicans who were thinking of starting booms for other candidates that they need have no doubt Mr. Harding will be a candidate. There have been rumors, for instance, that the President was tired of the job and would voluntarily withdraw. In the absence of such an announcement from him, the Republicans would feel justified in organizing primary campaigns for their own heroes. Anyone who starts a boom now knows he is plainly anti-Harding.

Opposition of La Follette.

The friends of the President know there will be some opposition. Daugherty said one man who always is a champion of the President, Senator La Follette, who has just begun a campaign of publicity for himself, at least so the President's friends believe, so as to divert attention from the President's own record. The President's friends believe, so as to divert attention from the President's own record. The President's friends believe, so as to divert attention from the President's own record.

PRESIDENT LETS PREDICTION OF HIS CANDIDACY STAND

Greeted With "Hurrah for Harding in 1924," He Says Nothing to Alter Impression He Will Run.

By the Associated Press.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 19.—President and Mrs. Harding and their vacation party today began a northward cruise that will end Thursday or Friday at St. Augustine. After a Sunday in Palm Beach, the party last night made the houseboat Pioneer. Fishing tackle and bait were aboard the Pioneer when she left here this morning and it was thought probable that the President would be fishing. The tentative plans for the cruise northward do not provide for so many stops for golf as on the way down.

The prediction made by Attorney General Daugherty in Miami that President Harding would be a candidate for re-nomination was received its first public reaction at West Palm Beach last night, when Mr. Harding with other members of his vacation party boarded the Pioneer. Several hundred residents of the city were crowded on the pier awaiting the President's arrival. When the automobile bearing him and Mrs. Harding drew up there was a shout of applause and shouts of "Hurrah for Harding in 1924."

Makes First "Speech" of Trip.

The shouting continued as the President and Mrs. Harding walked toward the boat, and became so noticeable above the general applause and cheers that the President, just before stepping upon the gangplank, turned toward the crowd and made the first speech, if it might be called that, which he has made during his vacation trip. He thanked those on the pier for their welcome, said he was glad that the crowd had come to bid Mrs. Harding and him farewell and that both of them held a warm spot in their hearts for West Palm Beach. Then, returning to the interior of the boat, he said:

"I want you to know that I have two more years ahead of me. Moreover, I have two hard years ahead of me."

50-DEGREE DROP IN TEMPERATURE IN 15 HOURS

Minimum Here 4 Above at 3 A.M.—Below Zero at Kansas City and Zero at Hannibal.

And Wednesday is the first day of spring.

That was one of the thoughts occasioned by the midwinter weather which descended upon St. Louis shortly after noon yesterday, bringing a drop in temperature, in 15 chilling hours, from 54 degrees to 4 degrees above zero. The 4-degree mark was reached at 3 a. m., and was maintained until daylight, when a warming-up process began which is expected to continue.

This morning's temperature was the coldest on record for so late in March. For more than a half century past, the reading has never been below 8 degrees after March 3. This is the second lowest temperature spell of the present winter, the first having been early in February. The low mark in February was 1 degree, on the fourth.

STATEMENT BY HULL ON HARDING'S CANDIDACY

Announcement Will Not Affect Situation in Either Party, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Characterizing Attorney General Daugherty's announcement of President Harding's candidacy for a second term as one which will have "no effect on the national political situation in either party," Secretary of State C. V. Hughes today said in a statement issued by the National Committee issued the following statement:

"The semi-official announcement by Attorney General Daugherty that President Harding will be a candidate for re-nomination is of no interest as news compared with the reasons for making the announcement at this time."

"If President Harding had only risen to the level of an ordinary President it would have been taken for granted that the party would nominate him. The doubt concerning his re-nomination has been raised by the fact that his administration to date has been the most complete failure of any in the 23 national administrations. With this fact confronting him, the progressive element in the Republican party as well as conservative of sound public judgment long ago realized that Mr. Harding could not be re-elected and began to look for another candidate. The failure of the Harding administration was demonstrated and emphasized by the Republican given it at the polls last November."

"The reactionary supporters of the President, largely confined to the office-holding and office-seeking class, evidently realized that Mr. Harding was to be re-nominated, something would have to be done to keep interest in him which was fast waning, and also to suppress those party leaders who were deserting the Harding cause in search of another candidate. Hence the announcement of the Harding candidacy by the President's close personal friend and most influential political adviser, Attorney General Daugherty. Hence, too, the President's speech-making tour of the country."

"The announcement of Attorney General Daugherty will have little or no effect upon the national political situation in either party. One of the outstanding issues in the 1924 campaign will be the record of unpopularity and commission of the Harding administration, whether Mr. Harding will be re-elected or not. On this issue the Democratic party is ready now to go to bat."

AUSTRALIAN ACTRESS NAMED IN FARRAR SUIT

The rooming house on West Thirty-seventh street, where Miss Ambler then was living, meeting the actress in the vestibule and embracing her.

Talked for Hours Over Spaghetti.

Then they would go for a walk, the witness stated, frequently walking far downtown into the crowded east side. Sometimes, he said, they would drop into small restaurants for late dinner, often sitting and talking for hours over their spaghetti. Then they would return to the rooming house and after a fond farewell, Tellegen would depart in a taxi cab for his suite at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

The woman referred to as "Miss L." also was brought into the case through the testimony of Fitzgerald and that of local assessors and an elevator and switchboard operator at the Riverside Drive apartment house, where "Miss L." lived.

Undermyer requested the referee to exclude newspaper men, the testimony was "unfit for their ears," and the referee granted the request. When the newspaper men were permitted to hear testimony again, Fitzgerald said that Tellegen was a frequent visitor to the apartment of "Miss L." At first, he testified, Tellegen would accompany her to the vestibule of the house, kiss her good night and leave. Later, he added, he spent several hours each night in her apartment.

The case was closed with Brandt's testimony. Arthur E. Schwartz, attorney for Tellegen, did not appear, and Undermyer told the referee he understood Schwartz would not enter any defense for his client.

The case was postponed, however, in order to give Schwartz an opportunity to make an entry of some sort on the record.

Tellegen, who yesterday began a week's engagement at the Orpheum Theater here, this afternoon declined to discuss allegations bringing the name of Lorna Ambler into his wife's divorce proceedings.

"I never discuss this divorce matter," he stated. "Any statement I have to come from my attorney in New York."

2 FLYERS BURNED TO DEATH

Plane, Caught in Heavy Wind, Crashes to Earth.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., March 19.—Jay C. Reichenbach, 26, and Kenneth C. Brown, 25, reserve officers of the United States Army Air Service, were burned to death at Fort Bliss, Ariz., yesterday when their De Havilland plane in which they were making a practice flight crashed to the ground in full view of hundreds of spectators. The plane caught fire and became a burning coffin for the two flyers, who were pinned beneath the wreckage.

Brown was an El Paso confectioner and was born in Gotham, N. H. He formerly lived at Portland, Me. Reichenbach was assistant air buyer for the El Paso Smelting Works. His home was in Centerville, Ill. Both were officers in the air service in the World War. Brown having seen service overseas. The flyers had just taken off and were less than 100 feet in the air when they were caught in a heavy wind, the plane nose-diving to the earth.

In a few days this little chap, whose grandfather and grandmother are the King and Queen of England, will be christened. He will be named Harry in honor of his father, Viscount Lascelles. It is reported that shortly after the christening Viscount Lascelles will be elevated to a dukedom in the royal house and the father of the only grandchild of the King and Queen who are just as foolish over the baby as are grandpas and grandmas the world over.

COUPLE HELD AFTER SHOOTING

JOLIET, Ill., March 19.—Cecil Hopkins, son of a prominent real estate dealer here, was shot twice and seriously wounded last night in a downtown office building.

John McCarthy, a steel worker, and his wife are being held in connection with the shooting. McCarthy recently threatened to sue Hopkins for alienation of his wife's affections. They refuse to speak of the shooting.

SUIT ON $17,000 NOTE FILED IN BANKRUPTCY CASE

New York Concern Seeking to Collect on Paper Given to Harris Firm by Central Loan & Jewelry Co.

Suit to collect a $17,000 note that was given as "accommodation" paper to the Harris & Kober Diamond Importing Co., 704 Olive street, which failed Feb. 27 with liabilities exceeding $1,000,000, was filed Saturday against the Central Loan and Jewelry Co., 1707 Market street, and Harry Gidansky and Ben Rothman, proprietors, by the law firm of Fagin, Kane & Schreiber, St. Louis attorneys, for Oppenheim & Strauss, New York jewelers.

Demand for payment of the note, which fell due Feb. 25, was made and refused on the ground that the Central Loan and Jewelry Co. had not the funds to meet it, according to counsel for the plaintiff.

Accommodation paper is a note given for no value received, merely to accommodate the borrower, who usually promises to take it up before maturity.

Gave Harris $17,000 in Cash.

At a meeting Thursday in New York of creditors of Harris & Kober it was made known by Oppenheim & Strauss that they gave Louis K. Harris, president of the Harris & Kober Co., $17,000 in cash a few days before he failed on the note. Other note of the Central Loan and Jewelry Co., Indorsed by Harris & Kober. This note has not matured and is not the one on which suit was made.

St. Louis lawyers retained to represent creditors meeting in New York and announced that Harris, in February, obtained cash and diamonds for the amount of $160,812 from New York merchants on promissory notes indorsed by his firm that he represented as customers' notes, but which are turning out to be accommodation paper given by concerns that, in many instances, cannot meet it. Harris has averred from the beginning that his New York transactions are turning out to be accommodation paper.

Two jewelry concerns, Harry Libenstein of 11 Collinville avenue, East St. Louis, and the Arnold Jewelry Co. of Texas, said they had given Harris & Kober accommodation paper, have gone into bankruptcy since the failure of the latter firm.

Thought to Be Flourishing.

The Harris & Kober Co. was presumed in the East to be in a flourishing condition. Harris recently in the witness stand before Federal bankruptcy court testified that the firm had been in adversity for nearly two years, owing to a slump in diamond values. This testimony does not coincide with statement made by the firm to the National Jewelers' Board of Trade, Feb. 1, 1922, which showed a solvent balance of $78,502.

At that time, according to the statement, the firm had net assets of $201,122.62, of which $25,631 was cash; $96,290 of diamonds; $55,878 in bills and accounts; and the remainder in furniture, fixtures and insurance. The liabilities then were listed at $115,619 in bills listed as not being due, and other items amounting to about $12,000.

The National Jewelers' Board of Trade has assigned special men to investigate this phase of the failure with a view, it is said, of determining if there is any fraud. Federal grand jury investigation should disclose warrant such procedure.

Van Raaie Large Creditor.

The East St. Louis creditor is Simon Van Raaie, real estate operator and money lender. According to a report made at the New York creditors' meeting, Van Raaie holds $20,714.74 of accommodation paper; $118,122.23 of customers' notes and $40,000 of direct paper. He also has about $125,000 of diamonds pledged to him for a loan. Harris testified in the bankruptcy proceedings that his firm paid Van Raaie interest on most of the loans at the rate of 10 percent a year. The firm's bookkeeper testified that interest of "6 per cent a year, trebled," was paid to Van Raaie on certain loans.

Van Raaie has denied that he charged excessive interest, asserting that he charged the legal rate, 8 per cent, but discounted the customers' notes and accommodation paper 10 per cent, which would make 18 per cent, but should not be figured as interest, he explained.

Fireman Rescues Woman.

Mrs. Nicholas Pfeiffer, of 4922 Thrush street, was rescued from the second floor of her home by Lieut. Edward Henneberry of Engine Co. 84 when it caught fire from an over-heated furnace at 6 o'clock last night. Mrs. Pfeiffer was overcome by smoke.

He said, was badly frightened when asked to go to the District Attorney's office. Both agreed to answer all questions. Marshall proved "conclusively that he had no connection with the crime, other than that he was a friend of the dead girl."

None of the many former night life friends of the gay Dorothy Keenan, always "the life of the party," attended her funeral yesterday. Only two automobiles followed the hearse to Greenwood cemetery.

Miss Hilda Ferguson, her closest friend, was indisposed. It was said.

TESTIFIES WILLIS WANTED NO TROOPS TILL MINERS ACTED

Witness Says Sheriff Replied "They (Nonunion Men) Ought to Have Known Better Than Come Down Here."

By the Associated Press.

MARION, Ill., March 19.—Dr. J. F. Shipman, testifying for the State today at the second Herrin riot trial, declared that the night before the outbreak he heard Hugh Willis, State Board member of the United Mine Workers, make a statement regarding the calling out of troops to protect the nonunion men in the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Co.

Willis said they had the mine well guarded and were principally interested in prevailing upon the Sheriff not to get troops until they got the men out and that the Sheriff said that he ought to have known better than come down here, but now that they are here let them take what's coming to them," Shipman testified.

At the first trial Dr. Shipman told of seeing six of the 45 nonunion workers taken from the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Co. last June, and marched through the streets of Herrin by a mob to an outlying cemetery where they were shot down.

A. A. Moseley of Marion, a hardware man, also a witness at the first trial, testified that the day before the riot a crowd of men entered his store and that he gave them guns and ammunition.

The merchant told of giving up some guns and $20 worth of ammunition upon a statement that "Hugh Willis would guarantee payment."

As the witness could not tell who made the statement and knew none of the crowd that day, he was excluded, but that portion of his evidence and the evidence of A. T. Norman, another hardware dealer, that guns were taken without permission and that no payment was made for them was allowed to stand.

Juror Nathan Barnes returned today from his home, where his wife and daughter are recovering from pneumonia. He had been at their bedside 8 days.

It is believed that the State will take the greater part of this week and the defense probably will not start until next Monday.

U. S. INQUIRY OF RADIO PROBLEM

Scientists Investigating "Dead Spots" Which Bar Transmission.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Government scientists are trying to determine the cause of "dead spots" between a number of cities in the United States which form an almost impenetrable barrier to the direct exchange of radio messages. The most pronounced of these appears to lie between Washington and Baltimore.

Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio division of the Bureau of Standards, who is trying to fathom the mystery, said the most plausible theory now advanced is the existence of a radio activity in these dead spots which so affects certain layers of the atmosphere as to render transmission of radio waves impossible.

Hereford Roundup Begins.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 19.—The sixth annual Hereford roundup began here today with cattlemen from many parts of the United States in attendance. The feature of the convention is a four-day auction of registered Herefords, most of which are to be sent to the range to be used in commercial beef production. More than 500 head of cattle were in the barns this morning.

Ordaining of Women Favored.

By the Associated Press.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., March 19.—The Southwestern Kansas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session here today voted unanimously to ordain women, but defeated a motion to make women effective as traveling ministers. After the vote, Bishop W. F. Anderson of Cincinnati said this was a part of a modern movement and that the end was not yet reached.

Carrier Pigeon Takes Shelter in House.

A carrier pigeon sought shelter from the cold in a second-story porch at 4516 Chouteau avenue early last night. The pigeon was found by Mrs. R. L. Cole of that address, who took it to her home. The bird was warm weather, or its owner. It bears two bands on the left leg, a yellow one with the number "11," and an aluminum band on which is inscribed "J. S. L. No. 704."

England Scraps the Orion.

Whisky and Still Seized in Bakery.

Police who raided the bakery of Joseph Bonmarito, 806 Biddle street, at 4 p. m. yesterday seized 76 gallons of moonshine whisky and a still in the basement. Bonmarito and his brother, Charles, of 802 Biddle street, were arrested.

DISTINCTION ACCORDED TO COLLEGE BREWER, WHO MAKES 'BEST BEER'

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 19.

A DISTINCTION rarely accorded to an Oxford graduate, much less to an employee who serves the needs of the University's young gentlemen, has come to Fred Hunt, the Queen's College brewer, upon the completion of a half century of service.

Hunt conceals the famous "chancellor brew"—the best beer in the world, according to Oxonians. It appears on the college tables only on such special occasions as the winning of an academic distinction or an athletic victory by a Queen's man.

In order to mark Hunt's jubilee, the Rev. G. B. Cronshaw, bursar of Queen's, ordered chancellor brew pressed round to the college staff in a silver tankard, an exact copy of the mugs used by the learned dons. The tankard was then presented to Hunt. The office of "Queen's brewer" dates back seven centuries.

CATHOLIC MINISTER TAKES ISSUE WITH REFORM IDEAS

Father Browne Says His Church Considers Alcoholic Drinks Not Essentially Bad.

The Rev. Father Andrew Browne, in a Lenten sermon at the New Cathedral last night, argued against enforced morality carried to extremes, saying, "If some of the reformers in America had their way we would have to spend our leisure time at croquet or middle-class-winks."

Talking, the clergyman said, is an expression of sex gravitation when indulged in by mixed couples and is not wrong if done prudently. The stage today is in a decadent state and the movies are crude and both have a tendency to lower public taste, he said. Jazz music produces frivolity and often is suggestive, in his opinion.

"The doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church is and has been, prohibitionists notwithstanding, that alcoholic liquor is not an evil in itself," Father Browne continued. "Temperance in this and other pleasures is the true philosophy of happiness."

PIGGY WIGGLY COMMON STOCK TO BE TAKEN OFF OPEN MARKET

Withdrawal of Offer at $55 Follows Order for Inquiry on Possible "Corner."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Withdrawal of the offer of class A common stock of the Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., at $55 a share to the general public was made last night by Charles Saunders, president, effective Wednesday. In a telegram from Memphis, Tenn., received here, he gave no reason for the action. An investigation to determine whether a "corner" exists in the stock was ordered last week by the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges.

LEGISLATORS GO TO HARRISON FOR INQUIRY

Members of "Citizens' Committee Summoned as Witnesses at Hearing."

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 19.—Members of the Arkansas Legislative Committee investigating recent disorders along the line of the Missouri & North Arkansas Railroad incident to a strike which has been in progress for two years, departed today for Harrison, the center of recent disturbances, to open hearings there tomorrow.

The committee has summoned as witnesses members of the "Citizens' Committee" of Harrison, a committee of 12 which reigned at Harrison following the lynching two months ago of E. C. Gregory, a striking shopman, and subsequent disorders. Employees of the road and members of the Brotherhood of Railway Shopmen also have been summoned to testify before the committee at Harrison.

MAN FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS

Harvey Harris, 32, of Hopkins, Mo., was found dead early yesterday on the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway tracks at Booster station, a mile north of Belleville.

Coroner Barker said that bruises about Harris' body indicated he had been hit by an interurban car. The coroner also questioned the crew of the last car to pass over the tracks Saturday night, and they said that they thought the car had hit something at Booster station, but that they had not stopped.

Harris, who had been working in the mines at O'Fallon for the past three months, was a widower and had a 10-year-old daughter.

Negro Slayer Shot to Death.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—Willie Johnson, negro, was shot and killed by farmer at Bowie, La., after being surrounded in a swamp by a posse of several hundred white men. The negro had been pursued since last Monday when he shot and killed Robert Sellers, State Conservation Agent at Waggaman, La. Several days later he broke through a posse at Lockport, La., after shooting and dangerously wounding Deputy Sheriff Anatole Ayco of La Fourche Parish. The pursuit was led by Robert Sellers Jr., son of the slain agent. The negro was wounded when young Sellers took the revolver from his dying father's hand.

Complaint Against Paint Men.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Complaints charging unfair competition have been filed by the Federal Trade Commission against the Brooks Oil Co., Cleveland; Frohlich Glass Co., Detroit; and E. A. Benedict, Cleveland, for marketing of paint labeled "U. S. Quality Paint," which it is said, "was made by the U. S. Government not according to Government specifications."

SENATE PASSES BILL TO SPEED UP HIGHWAY WORK

Measure to Increase Engineering Department's Pay Awaits House's Signature.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The State Highway Department's bills to speed up road building and to have the engineering division of the department from disintegration, were passed by the Senate today. There were Senate amendments to the bill authorizing the issuance of an increased amount of bonds, and it will be necessary for the bill to go back to the House for concurrence in the amendments.

As passed in the Senate, the bill authorizes the issuance of an additional $5,000,000 of bonds this year, making $15,000,000 for the year, and the issuance of $10,000,000 each in 1924 and 1925, and $3,000,000 each year thereafter for four years when the $50,000,000 authorized will have been loaned. Under a law passed two years ago, the issuance of bonds was limited to $5,000,000 a year.

The other bill which awaits only the Governor's signature to become a law will increase salaries in the engineering department. The pay of the assistant chief engineer will be increased from $1800 to $2000; department heads from $2000 to $2400, and division engineers from $2600 to $2800. It was explained that the road construction companies were bidding for the services of road engineers, and that unless salaries were increased the corps of engineers in the Missouri department probably would be wrecked.

DOG CATCHER HELD AS ROBBER

Youth Identified by Managers of Two Stores Makes No Statement.

Oliver Holterbach, 18 years old, 2727 South Tenth street, a substitute city dog catcher, is under arrest and has been identified by managers of two Kroger grocery stores as the man who held them up. He declined to make a statement.

Louis Hafner, manager of a Kroger store at 3018 Arsenal street, told police that Holterbach robbed him of $43.93 last Thursday. Denton Hales, manager of a store at 2446 Nebraska avenue, identified Holterbach, saying they watched him run from the store.

Rotary Club Founded in Amsterdam.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.

AMSTERDAM, March 19.—"Service above self. He profits most who serves best. That is our principle," said Mr. Teale, an American railway engineer, at a private meeting when the Amsterdam Rotary Club was officially admitted into the International Association of Rotary Clubs. "There are three kinds of men—destructive, constructive and constructive. I hope you will all be constructive Rotarians." Teale, who is making a world tour to found Rotary clubs in various countries, told something about the work of the Chicago Rotary Club in 1908.

INTERMEDIATE CREDIT
BANK LOANS EXPLAINED

How Farmers Can Use New Federal Institutions, One of Which Is to Be at St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Federal Farm Loan Board has authorized the incorporation of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank at St. Louis, to be operated in conjunction with the Federal Land Bank there, as provided for in the rural credits law enacted by Congress just before its adjournment.

Farm Loan Commissioner Lobdell today made the following statement in reference to the new Intermediate Credit Banks:

"The conference with the presidents of the several Federal Land Banks last week and such analysis as we have been able to make of the agricultural credits act seem to justify the following suggestions:

"The new system undertakes to provide only for intermediate agricultural credits; that is, credits for a longer period than may be extended ordinarily by banks of deposit and falling short of the long-term farm loan. It is essentially a new departure and a new system, and must be developed with patience, prudence, and care, and along lines of absolute safety.

"Direct loans cannot be made to individuals. Direct advances may be made to co-operative marketing associations or livestock associations secured by warehouse receipts for staple agricultural products, or by chattel mortgage on livestock. No such loan may exceed 75 per cent of the market value of the agricultural product or livestock. Loans may be discounted for national and State banks, savings banks, trust companies, agricultural credit corporations, and incorporated livestock loan companies under regulations yet to be prescribed.

"Loans discounted for banking associations must have been made for agricultural purposes, which is interpreted to mean to a person engaged in agriculture and for the purpose of carrying on such business. No paper can be rediscounted upon which the borrower has been charged a rate more than 1 1/2 per cent in excess of the discount rate of the Intermediate Credit Bank of the district. In making advances on warehouse receipts, the banks can accept only receipts from bonded Government warehouses or satisfactory bonded warehouses operating under satisfactory State supervision and regulation. This should lead to broader interest and greater activity in the development of warehouse facilities and their proper regulation.

"No loans for speculation. The facilities which the banks will be able to afford to co-operative marketing concerns should lead to a greater development of such enterprises. Ample funds may be available for loans to facilitate orderly marketing, but none to support speculative holding of farm products. No loans, until the system is thoroughly tried out, will be made for a longer period than nine months. Upon livestock paper satisfactory assurances of renewal will be given in proper cases, but only to an aggregate amount not exceeding the capital of the Intermediate Credit Bank, and always subject to reinspection and satisfactory condition of security.

"The banks will be chartered immediately and, being fully officered, can, with reasonable promptness, begin the inspection of services; but in view of the extension of the term of service of the War Finance Corporation and the generally satisfactory condition of credits through existing agencies, no considerable immediate demand is anticipated.

"National agricultural credit corporations organized under the so-called Capper act have no relation to the Intermediate Credit Banks and cannot discount with them. It will be the ambition of those charged with the administration of the new law to render maximum service; but elemental business safety must be the first consideration, and banks and co-operative institutions desiring to use the service and see it developed will make their best contribution by offering nothing but perfectly sound paper, thus avoiding disappointments and dissatisfaction."

NEGRO WOMAN FOUND STABBED TO DEATH IN ROOMING HOUSE

Negro Who Had Shared Lodgings With Her Being Sought by the Police.

A negro woman, about 27 years old, was stabbed to death in a front room at 2308 Pine street at some time between Friday afternoon and yesterday morning, when the body was found. A negro who had shared the room with her is being sought by the police.

The two stayed at the rooming house from last Monday until Thursday, then left, and returned Friday, and the man said they wished to rest. Nothing was heard of them Saturday, and yesterday morning the woman's body was found in the bed with several wounds in the throat and two in the body. A knife of the spring-back kind was in the stove, the handle partly burned. A window was partly open.

RULING AGAINST COAL COMPANY

Government Not Liable For Profits Lost During Fuel Administration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Coal mining companies cannot hold the Federal Government liable for any profits they lost while the Fuel Administration was functioning.

The Supreme Court held today in a case brought by the J. M. MacDonald Coal Mining Co. that companies unable to produce coal at a profit under the prices established were required to furnish certain data before an application for higher prices would be considered. The MacDonald company refused to do so, continued to produce coal at a loss and sought to recover from the Government. The Court of Claims has decided against the company.

HOUSING TRUST BILL
SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Repeals Section Under Which These Concerns Are Organized as Common Law Trusts.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—Gov. Hyde today signed the bill repealing the law under which housing trusts are organized as common law trusts. His action will serve to defeat the bill urged by the housing trusts to place them under the regulation of the State Finance Commission, which passed the Senate Friday and which is set for hearing before the House Judiciary Committee tonight.

Under the law signed by the Governor, the trusts will be forced to go out of business, or to continue under the co-operative companies act, the terms of which are said to be prohibitive, or to reorganize under the building and loan association law.

The companies, in urging the passage of the regulatory measure, contended that, while the companies operating as 3 per cent loan concerns, had been found actually unsound, the provisions of proposed act would place them on a safe basis, and there would be no losses to investors. This was denied by officials of the State Finance Department, which held that the law if enacted would be unworkable.

Passage of the regulatory law, as written, would not serve to aid the companies, in that it is so drawn as to be applicable only, if the law, which was repealed, was continued in effect.

DANCER AND HER MOTHER
STILL CONFINED IN JAIL

Perjury Defendants Must Await New York State Justice's Return From Trip.

NYACK, N. Y., March 19.—Evan Burrows Fontaine, Oriental dancer, and her mother, Mrs. Florence E. Fontaine, indicted for perjury in connection with the former's million-dollar breach-of-promise suit against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, were still in the Rockland County jail today.

Refused bail Saturday pending their arraignment, because the property they offered as security was held to be not acceptable, the two women were locked up, with Miss Fontaine's baby son, who figured in the suit against young Whitney.

Their counsel appeared again today, prepared to offer bail they thought would be acceptable. They found, however, that Supreme Court Justice Tompkins had gone to White Plains and was advised nothing could be done until his return. Justice Tompkins is expected home late this evening. The baby was removed from the county jail yesterday by a sister of Mrs. Fontaine, and taken to New York to await the return of his mother and grandmother.

BORAH CONDEMNS ADMINISTRATION'S POLICY ON RUSSIA

6000 Trade Unionists and Friends Hear Senator's Arguments for Recognition of the Soviet.

By Leased Wire From the New York Times.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Before an audience of about 6000 trade unionists and friends who roared approval, United States Senator Borah turned his oratorical guns last night upon the reasons given by the State Department for withholding recognition of Soviet Russia.

Madison Square Garden, where the Senator spoke under the auspices of the National Labor A. H. H. found, however, that Supreme Court Justice Tompkins had gone to White Plains and was advised nothing could be done until his return. Justice Tompkins is expected home late this evening. The baby was removed from the county jail yesterday by a sister of Mrs. Fontaine, and taken to New York to await the return of his mother and grandmother.

Hitting squarely at the State Department's assertion that Russia is conducting propaganda here for the overthrow of this Government, Senator Borah said: "I happen to know upon direct authority that one of the highest officers in the Department of Justice said there was not one scintilla of evidence with the Department of Justice to that effect."

"How sensitive," he said, "Oh how sensitive as to the instability of the United States Government are these foreign diplomats! What a marvelous faith they have in the patriotism and the intelligence of the American people, that they are afraid some propaganda which may be shipped in here will cause a riot before morning!"

"About every six months this old propaganda is pulled out of the pigeon hole where it has been for the last six years, revamped and reprinted, and we are told that another effort is being made to overthrow the American Government."

Calling for Grand Jury. "About three months ago it was published all over the United States that they had emissaries and spies here organizing for the overthrow of this Government, and that the Department of Justice had conclusive proof of this. Well, what is the Department of Justice doing if it has any such evidence as that? Let us see it! Let us call a grand jury! Let us test the question and see whether the evidence is worth anything or not."

As to the State Department's plea that Soviet Russia had refused to recognize the debt of the former Government to the United States, Senator Borah said: "The amount which we reduced the English debt when we came to settle it would pay the Russian debt (which he asserted was $178,000,000) several times over. Russia is manifesting just as keen a desire to pay her debt to us as any other nation which owes us money, so far as I know. I stand here to say I would not hesitate a moment to take the responsibility of securing a settlement of the Russian debt upon the terms on which we settled the debt with Great Britain."

Trade Question. When the applause had subsided he vigorously demanded: "I would like to know what evidence the State Department has that upon the recognition of Russia, Russia would refuse to recognize that debt."

On the assertion it is still unsafe to trade with Russia, Senator Borah remarked many persons are now trading with Russia with perfect safety and 14 nations either have treaties recognizing Russia or trade agreements with her.

"Does anyone know," he demanded, "of any instance in which Russia has violated any of the terms of any of these agreements?"

As to confiscation of property by the Soviets, he declared our Government confiscated property during the revolutionary period, and also during the last war. The manner in which alien property has been seized and administered here, he said, has caused "a blot on the history of the United States which it will take many years to efface."

Even though we talk of returning that property, he said, its owners will not get what they are entitled to, because it has been looted by persons in charge of it.

By way of comparison he remarked that George Washington's Cabinet took only two hours to vote unanimously to recognize the revolutionary government of France at the time of the Reign of Terror. He scored secret diplomacy and heavy armaments and said Russia is the only country that has come out of the war that is able to stand alone.

It tells interestingly why "that tired dragged-out feeling," headaches and biliousness are but forerunners of more serious troubles, if we only knew it, as well as keeping us but half fit for the strenuous life necessary for the success that should be ours.

It also tells how, by the scientific use of simple pure warm water this condition can be permanently corrected and we can be one hundred per cent. every morning in the year.

Medicine has no part in the result, over a million enlightened Americans have read this book in the past few years, and are now delighted with the health they enjoy through the simple home practice which it recommends.

HEARD QUARREL BEFORE MURDER IN 'SALOON

Man Tells of Being Ejected Just Before Killing at 1001 Biddle Street Saturday Night.

The only facts bearing upon the killing of Joseph Fardello, a recent arrival in St. Louis from Cleveland, in the saloon and grocery of Dominio
Giambroni at 1001 Biddle street,
Saturday night, are contained in a statement obtained yesterday from Robert Norwood of 736 South Broadway, who was ejected from the saloon just a few minutes before the shooting.

A coroner's inquest, begun today, was continued at the request of the police homicide squad which has not completed its investigation of the murder.

Norwood entered the saloon by chance. He said that five or six men were talking in a group in Italian and appeared to be quarrelling. A small man entered the saloon from the rear, he said, and upon observing him, demanded: "What are you doing here?" Norwood said he replied that he had just bought a drink and a cigar. The small Italian seized him, he said, and shoved him out the front door.

When He Heard Shots.
Before he had crossed the street, he said, two or three shots were fired in the saloon. In fear that the shots might have been fired at him, he started to run. He kept running until he felt exhausted in Fourth street at Washington avenue, where a policeman took him in charge.

Norwood identified Dominio Giambroni, who is held, as the man who had come out of a side room during the quarrel and said that Giambroni was in the saloon when he was ejected. He said also that Fardello was one of the men in the group that appeared to be quarrelling.

When the police arrived at the saloon, after hearing shots, they found Giambroni locking the saloon door. The body of Fardello was just inside the door.

Another Shooting Recalled.
John Dipasquale was fatally shot as he passed Giambroni's saloon last November. Giambroni and two of his brothers were held for a time and a fourth brother was sought, but the police could obtain no corroborative evidence of a declaration by Dipasquale's widow that he had confided in her before his death that he had quarrelled with the Giambroni brothers in a poker game and that they had shot him.

YOUTH ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BEATING BILLS AT FIVE HOTELS

Said to Have Admitted Dropping Suitcase Out of Windows
Before Departing.

A well-dressed youth giving his name as W. P. Fox, his occupation as "waiting for something to turn up" and his address as formerly of Indianapolis and lately of the Statler, Jefferson, Marquette, Melbourne and Gateworth hotels, was arrested in the Gateworth this morning by city detectives, on charges of beating his bills at these hotels.

The detectives said Fox admitted he had walked away and left his bill behind him after dropping his suitcase out of the windows of his rooms. His bills, all in the last month, averaged about $30 at each of the hotels, and included items for barber service, food and meals served in his rooms. At some of the places he registered as Fox and at others as "W. R. McCoy." Warrants will be applied for.

MRS. JOHN HUGO RUSSELL'S SON STILL MAY SUCCEED TO TITLE

(Copyright, 1933.)
LONDON, March 19.—The future
name of Mrs. John Hugo Russell's son still is in doubt, although her husband last week obtained a divorce on the ground of his wife's misconduct with an unknown man, presumably the child's father, according to the verdict. But Lord Amphil, Russell's father, to whose title the baby ultimately will succeed if he is not declared illegitimate, has admitted:
"The baby cannot be declared illegitimate, despite the divorce decree, until evidence very nearly equivalent to the absence of husband from wife for three years can be adduced."

Lord Amphil added he had not decided whether to take action under the legitimacy act to prevent the child from succeeding to the title.
He says he will first get legal advice.

NEUN AND CURRIE QUESTIONED ON EXCHANGE OF USE OF BRIDGES

Nether Candidate Expresses Definite Stand to Tenth Ward Improvement Association.

The Tenth Ward Improvement Association failed yesterday in its effort to force from candidates for the presidency of the Board of Aldermen an unqualified "yes" or "no" to the proposal for an exchange of uses of the Municipal and Eads bridges by the city and railroads.

Walter J. G. Neun, Republican candidate, pressed for an answer, said that the Republican platform called for an expression on the issue by popular vote and he was ready to abide by the decision of the people.
Dwight P. Currie, Democratic candidate, said that the question was "too intricate" for an expression of definite stand at this time. He said he was convinced that all the facilities in the district should be brought into maximum use, even though the arbitrary was not abolished. This is the view of the Terminals Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, that the plan is one of utilization of facilities and not a rate problem, rates being under control of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The entire meeting of the association, which was held in a hall at Broadway and Chippewa street, was given over to the discussion, Frank H. Gerhart, leader of the opposition to the plan, keeping up a rapid fire of questions and arguments with the candidates.

WILSON FOUNDATION FUND DRIVE TO CLOSE FORMALLY MAY 1

Final Result of Campaign to Raise $1,000,000 Will Be Announced at Trustees' Meeting.

The final result of the campaign to raise $1,000,000 for the Woodrow Wilson Foundation will be announced at a meeting of the board of trustees, to be held in New York City May 1. This information is contained in a letter received by J. Lionberger Davis, State chairman for Missouri, from Hamilton Holt, executive director of the national organization.

The funds gathered by popular subscription in all parts of the country during the last year will be formally turned over to the board of trustees at this meeting which, Holt says, will be marked by "a dignified ceremony with speeches about the future of the foundation and also about Mr. Wilson."

Admission to the ceremony will be by card of invitation only, and Davis has been requested to furnish a list of Missouri men and women to whom invitations will be sent.

Davis has sent a final notice to county chairmen and others who have funds collected for the foundation immediately to Rolla Wells, state treasurer, in order to have the Missouri quota ready to turn over to the national treasurer by April 1.

HOUSE YET TO PASS ON KINNEY RESOLUTION

Idea That Move to Amend Federal Constitution Is Wet Maneuver Disputed.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The concurrent resolution by Senator Kinney of St. Louis, asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to amend the Federal Constitution so as to prevent levying of direct Federal taxes, except in time of war or for payment of debt incurred by war, is scheduled for consideration in the House today. It was adopted by the Senate Thursday by a vote of 16 to 14, with four absent.

Discussion of the resolution on the floor of the Senate brought out that some legislators who at first thought the proposal was actuated by a desire to repeal the prohibition amendment to the Constitution are now convinced that its purpose is to curb the tendency towards centralization of power at Washington.

Changed His Views.

Senator McCawley of Carthage, said he at first was opposed to the resolution because he considered it an entering wedge of the wets. He said that he has studied the resolution carefully and has received letters urging support of the resolution from the Decentralization League of America. "I notice that the names of the officers of that league are older than I ever was," McCawley said. He is classified with the drys on prohibition questions.

Senator Frank Farris, Democratic floor leader, urged adoption of the resolution in a talk condemning the concentration of powers with Federal officials at Washington. When Senator Farris was asked the reason for passing the resolution at this time, he said that a beginning must be made somewhere.

"There can never be results unless there is a beginning," Farris said. "The tendency towards centralization of power in Washington is one thing should be curbed as soon as possible."

Argument of Opponents.

Senator Irwin of Jefferson City and Senator Proctor of Kansas City, spoke against the resolution. Each said that the time is inopportune for the drafting of amendments to the Federal Constitution.

"The people of the United States are not capable of making a Constitution now because there are too many divergent interests," Irwin said.

CORRELATION OF ALL BRANCHES OF HEALING TO BE UNDERTAKEN

Association to Be Formed at Meeting in New York

NEW YORK, March 19.—Correlation of all branches of healing, whether medical or spiritual, in order to promote the most scientific treatment of nervous disorders, will be undertaken by the National Association for the Advancement of Scientific Healing. It is announced by Dr. Edward S. Cowles, head of the Park Avenue Sanatorium and a noted specialist in mental diseases.

Among those named as officers or as members of committees of the association are Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Samuel Taylor Meyer, Thomas L. Chadbourne, William G. McCadon, George Gordon Battle, the Rev. Howard J. Melloh and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Rhineland.

Edward G. Ridd, executive assistant to the president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, is president, and Mrs. Minton Pinchot is first vice president. Dr. Cowles is chief medical adviser.

The new organization will be launched at a meeting in Town Hall Wednesday night. Dr. Cowles said he hoped to enlist the assistance of the best physical, faith, healers, spiritualists, mediums, chiropractors, Christian Science practitioners, mental suggestionists, dieticians and psychoanalysts in order to promote the most scientific treatment of nervous or mental diseases. This treatment, he said, would be based upon a thorough examination of the patient, including physical, spiritual, social, industrial and environmental conditions.

SENATE INQUIRY INTO AUDITOR'S AFFAIRS ENDS

Democratic House Caucus Leader Says Disclosure Are Too Petty to Justify Impeachment Cost.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The investigation by a Senate committee of the transactions of the State Auditor and other State officials is over. Senator Frank H. Farris of Rolla, chairman of the investigating committee, said today, and a report probably will be filed tomorrow. "The report will not analyze the extensive testimony taken by the committee, but will simply be a transcript of the evidence taken. It will be recalled that most of the time the committee was occupied by witnesses with stories to tell about various transactions of State Auditor Hackmann and his employees. Democratic Caucus Chairman Roney of the House said that no impeachment proceedings would grow out of the investigation, as he considered the circumstances disclosed by the hearings too petty in character to justify the expense which would be involved in impeachment proceedings.

RULES ON PARK PICNIC PERMITS

Applications Must Be Made in Writing, Stating Particulars.

Permits to hold picnics in the public parks during the coming season will be issued, beginning tomorrow.

Applications giving particulars as to the character of the picnic to be held must be made in writing to the Park Commissioner's office, room 330, Municipal Court Building. No permit will be issued without an investigation being made to determine the character of those applying for the permit. In order to eliminate picnics given for commercial purposes, Page said the policy of the department this year would be to after July 4. Small family picnics, limit the picnic to be held to those as heretofore, will be permitted in given under the auspices of public all the parks without permits.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent cures the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

A Woman's Smile

How vastly more attractive when it shows pretty teeth

Have you noted how many smiles now show prettier teeth, in pictures and in persons? And how much they add to beauty and to charm?

Such teeth were seen less often in old days. The change has come with a new method of teeth cleaning. People are fighting film. Millions have gained in the past few years a new conception of clean teeth.

You will use this method when you know it. The results are resistless. So we urge you to make this test.

Dingy, dangerous film

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So, under old methods, beautiful teeth were more rare than now. Nearly everybody left some film to dim and destroy the teeth.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Tooth troubles were constantly increasing. Very few escaped. So dental science saw the need of finding ways to fight film.

Two ways discovered

After long research, two film combatants were discovered. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research, and these two great film destroyers were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. All the world over, in almost every circle, its effects are seen today.

Aids Nature's fights

Nature makes saliva alkaline to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It puts a starch digestant in saliva, to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Old-time tooth pastes, it was found, decreased those protective agents. That's one reason why they failed. Pepsodent multiplies that alkalinity, multiplies that starch digestant. It gives to both a manifold effect.

Compare the old ways with the new and you will realize the difference in effects.

Dentists of some 50 nations
now advise its use

The use of Pepsodent has spread the world over, largely through dental advice. Its principles are recognized everywhere.

To careful people of some 50 nations it is bringing a new dental era. Not to use it means to disregard authoritative dental opinion.

How well it pays

One quick result is prettier teeth. Then comes a new feeling of cleanliness, a new sense of safety.

People who see and feel those results will never go without them. This test has brought new light to millions, and it will to you.

PURE MILK BILL PASSES HOUSE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The Senate "pure milk bill" was passed by the House today with only four votes more than the required constitutional majority, over opposition of several rural members who declared the bill was designed to put the public at the mercy of the "milk trust." The bill provides that any substitutes for milk or butter must be sold under their proper names and that no part of milk or butter can be used in the substitutes. Representative Cordry of St. Louis said the bill was designed to give what we get when we buy a quart of milk unless we have it analyzed, and then we find it contains everything that no part of milk or butter can

PRESIDENTIAL RESIDENCE IN MEXICO RECEIVED K S D CONCERT

Letter From Mexico City Tells of Hearing Spanish Program by Radio.

Among the places which received the special Spanish program of Station K S D on March 8 was the presidential residence in the City of Mexico, according to a letter from Nicolas Luna, who is in the electrical business in the Mexican capital.

The program, of unusual excellence, was given by Club Guadalupe, and was arranged by Senor Francisco Alvarez, Mexican Consul at St. Louis, and the Rev. W. F. Mullally. A letter to Father Mullally says:

"I received your letter of Feb. 23 yesterday, just in time to be able to install at the Castle of Chapultepec, the presidential residence, as you know, a Westinghouse receiver, type R. C. (three lamps) and a loud speaker. Western Electric, type D. A. through which we were fortunate enough to obtain a few of the numbers on your program as follows: 'Sobre las Olas,' 'Ojos Tapatis,' 'El Ejote,' also part of your own speech. Unfortunately, as your performance started at 8 p. m., St. Louis time, which corresponds to 7 p. m. of ours, there were many interferences of the radio station at Chapultepec sending messages. We also heard stations of ships, probably in the Gulf."

"I felt a sentiment hard to describe when I realized that I was hearing from you thousands of miles from Mexico without the assistance of wires. Our sincere congratulations to Mr. Rivas, as he has a magnificent voice, also extend our congratulations to all the artists who took part in this program."

"Receive our most affectionate greetings. Your sincere friend, 'NICOLAS LUNA.'"

Reports about hearing the same program were received from other Spanish-speaking countries south of the Rio Grande and from Cuba.

FORMER SECT MEMBERS SUE
HOUSE OF DAVID FOR $80,000

By the Associated Press.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 19.—A suit which attorneys for either side say will delve to the very foundations of the House of David religious colony at Benton Harbor was begun in United States District Court here today. The action is that of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hansell of Nashville, Tenn., to collect $80,000 from Benjamin Purnell, head of the colony, the plaintiffs claiming that sum for property turned over to the organization when they joined the House of David and for labor by the Hansell family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansell, the bill of complaint sets forth, were expelled from the organization. Defense attorneys say the expulsion followed alleged attempts on the part of Hansell to organize a revolt in the colony against the leadership of Purnell. Mr. and Mrs. Hansell allege they discovered the House of David engaged in various commercial activities in Benton Harbor. The defense will contend it was announced by attorneys at opening of the trial that the colony was solely a religious organization. Purnell contends the Hansell suit can be decided only by the ecclesiastical court of the organization at Benton Harbor.

Steps to Success

by Raleigh E. Ross

Builders of success—what spurs to ambition are contained in the stories of their struggles!

A clerk pictured a great railroad in the Northwest. He interested capital. James J. Hill—the clerk—became the empire builder.

A train newsdealer, despite despondency, decided to travel the highroad to success as an inventor. Many electrical conveniences remind us of the attainments of Thomas Edison.

Carnegie ran a steam engine at $2 a week. He saved as he went along. He ignored short cuts to wealth. His success is a spur to young America.

The cook boy of the northern woods seasoned his work with study and economy. He learned to think. He saved to invest in lumber and ships. A merchant fleet now carries Robert Dollar's name around the world.

It is encouraging to study the steps by which typical Americans climb through obscurity and difficulty to success.

It is still more encouraging to feel yourself climbing—drawing away from the crowd.

Plant your feet firmly on your first step to success—your Bank Account. This is your logical start to the higher steps—Character, Determination, Economy, Industry, Square Dealing, Planning, Enthusiasm. Think! Leave the crowd; strike your stride; save—and win. Yes, you can achieve success. Aim high—and try.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

Following Secession, Nothing Was Done by Either North or South Until Lincoln Was Inaugurated and Many Still Hoped War Might Be Averted.

Lincoln Was Nominated for the Presidency.
By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."
(Copyright, 1923, by Hendrik Van Loon.)

It was the year of our Lord, 1860, and time to think about choosing a new President to succeed Buchanan. Guerrilla warfare in Kansas, the failure of the Federal Courts to uphold the Missouri compromise in the Dred Scott case, and the activities of the late John Brown had dangerously widened the gulf between North and South.

The Democratic convention met at Charleston, S. C. The Southern Democrats laid an ultimatum before the convention: Congress must protect slavery in the territories, and the North must accept that such an ultimatum was impossible, whereupon the Northern delegates arose in a body and withdrew from the convention. The Northerners also adjourned, and later met in Baltimore, where they nominated Stephen A. Douglas for President. The Southerners held a convention of their own in Richmond, Va., and nominated J. C. Breckinridge of Kentucky.

The Republican convention was held in Chicago. In their platform they stated that they had no intention of interfering with slavery in those states where it already existed, but would Congress forbid it in the territories. They nominated Abraham Lincoln. There were other men who were better known and would most probably carry the Western States. Events proved this reasoning correct. In the election Lincoln received 18 electoral votes, Breckinridge 72 and Douglas only 12.

When the South Carolina Legislature heard that Lincoln had been elected it summoned a convention, which met in December and solemnly declared that "the union now subsisting between South Carolina and the other states, under the name of the United States of America, was broken." Other states followed suit, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida and Texas, and on Feb. 22, 1862, a convention called together at Montgomery, Ala., drew up provisional constitution for the Confederate States of America, named Jefferson Davis President and sent invitations to the other states to join them.

The South was firmly convinced that a Republican administration spelled disaster to slavery, and that the only way to preserve was to leave the Union.

There were eight United States forts in the seceding states. Of these, being ungarrisoned, were speedily occupied by the secessionists. The other two, Fort Pickens at Pensacola, Fla., and Fort Sumter, at Charleston, S. C., remained in Federal hands.

Then, until Lincoln's inauguration, nothing further was done either side. Neither North nor South wished to be the one to start the war, and there were many optimists on both sides who hoped that war might even then be averted. A committee appointed in the Senate to discuss plans of compromise, but day of compromise was over, and nothing was accomplished.

LOON ARRIVES IN CITY

Author of Historical Works for Children to Give Address Tonight.
Dr. Hendrik Van Loon, author of "The Story of Mankind" and other works on history for children and adults, arrived in St. Louis today, accompanied by Mrs. Van Loon. They are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Eisman, Cecil avenue and University lane.

Dr. Van Loon will speak tonight at Sheldon Memorial, 2446 Washington boulevard, on "History and a World Point of View." His recent observations in Europe furnished the material for this address, which will be illustrated with original sketches. Clark McAdams of the Post-Dispatch will introduce him.

POLICEMAN CAUSES ARREST OF MAN AFTER GIRL'S COMPLAINT

Barber Said to Have Made Improper Proposals to Girls Advertising for Employment.

William Dale, 55 years old, a barber living at the Drake Hotel, 718 South Seventh street, was arrested yesterday after an investigation by Mrs. Josephine Stapleton, police woman, of complaints alleging he was answering advertisements of girls seeking employment, and making improper proposals when an interview was held on his offer of employment.

The arrest was made at Hotel Statler after Dale is said to have made such a proposal to the police woman, posing as a "Miss Bates," in connection with his offer to employ her as housekeeper in "his bungalow" at Alton, Ill. A high-priced automobile, $150 a month and other advantages were included in the offer, Mrs. Stapleton said. Dale, who told the police woman his name was "Mr. Hooker," today admitted, the police said, that he did not own a house or car, virtually was out of funds and had no job. Dale is being held.

Morse Trial Again Deferred.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Government's conspiracy case against Charles W. Morse and three of his sons, growing out of wartime shipping transactions, was again postponed today when called in the District Supreme Court. Illness of Harry F. Morse, one of the defendants, was the cause.

MEN SHAKE HANDS AFTER FIGHT OVER BOULEVARD STOP CASE

Disturbance Charges Dismissed; Woman Pays Costs and Is Not Required to Go to Trial.

Floyd A. Johnston, a real estate dealer at 2905 Easton avenue, and Arthur A. Benjamin, 45, manager of the Boulevard Apartments, 4001 Washington boulevard, who had a "first" fight in police court Saturday over remarks alleged to have been made to Johnston's wife by Benjamin, who caused Mrs. Johnston's arrest for failing to observe the boulevard stop law, agreed not to prosecute each other today, shook hands and the cases against them were dismissed. They had charged each other with disturbance of the peace.

Mrs. Johnston, her sister-in-law and their four children were halted by Benjamin when Mrs. Johnston failed to stop her automobile before entering Union boulevard from Ridge avenue. Benjamin was in Police Court Saturday to appear against her, but she admitted the charge, paid the cost of $3 and was not required to go to trial. Johnston pounced on Benjamin in the courtroom and struck him in the face with his fists, because, he said, Benjamin had used insulting language to Mrs. Johnston. Benjamin has denied that he was abusive to Mrs. Johnston.

Lost Jewelry Returned.

James Fisher, 73 years old, lost a package of jewelry Friday. He could not be sure just where the loss had occurred, but he notified the police, and yesterday he got back the lost articles which he valued at $300. Charles F. McKay of the Mar-McKay Manufacturing Co., 2715 South Second street, had found the package on a Park car.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 17.—Although the State Constitution is interpreted "solely for the good of the whole people" and in another breath sternly forbids the Legislature to enact local or special laws, the bulk of the time of that body in the session now about to close has been monopolized by measures brought here to accomplish the special and often selfish aims of relatively small classes.

In fact, the legislation appears to have undergone such a metamorphosis from the day in which it was "legislation by and for the people" that now it is, in a measure at least, legislation for the lobbyists and legislative agents.

Some of the persons contemplated by those terms, however, are deserving of the suspicion ordinarily attached to the legislative agents of special interests. For in self-defense the advocates of deserving progressive measures have been compelled in recent years to send benevolent lobbyists here, sometimes to push or pull reforms through the halls created by the flood of "local and special" bills, or to endeavor to "kill some of that number which strike at the public good."

Hotels Crowded. And so, it has come about that throughout this Legislature, and those which have immediately preceded it for a number of years, the limited hotel capacity of Jefferson City has been strained beyond its maximum to accommodate the "birds of legislation" and their agents and the railroad men who have been induced to furnish special Pullman service in and out of the capital to facilitate the comings and goings of these people.

Doubtless anyone who had had to search through the more than 14,000 sections of statute law upon the books in Missouri prior to the convening of this Legislature would find the need for much more amendment. Yet nearly a thousand bills were introduced into the two branches of the Legislature, the House, whose membership is four and one-half times as large as that of the Senate, having produced about twice as many bills.

Brief scrutiny of the crowds in the hotel lobbies and in the corridors and galleries of the legislative floor of the capital and a cursory excursion into the legislative index of bills, however, soon tells the story of this avalanche.

Groups and More Groups. Here is a group of physicians with a bill they want passed. Yonder is a knot of fire insurance men of one type who want a certain bill enacted into law. On the other side of the lobby another gathering of a different kind of insurance men who say that this measure would drive them out of business. So they are here to have it killed, if they can. Seated not far away is a politician from St. Louis who has a bill affecting the rate at which charges shall be made for the publication of legal notices, while over by the cigar counter is a publisher and his friends who have come to administer a sleeping potion to the movement. For it might interfere with their business.

In the dining room may be observed several tables occupied solely by women. They are among the benevolent legislative agents. Some of them are trying to induce little interested legislators to tighten the restrictions on child labor; others want the State to step into the oppression sometimes practiced against women in industry by providing for an 8-hour day and a minimum wage commission for women.

Another who has stuck to her job quite manfully, by the way, is here to wage almost a single-handed fight against St. Louis politicians who are trying to get their clutches back on the St. Louis Board of Education. Her dinner companion, who has been none the less faithful and active, wants her share to have equal representation with men on political committees.

Two separate camps of nurses are seen. One set, the registered nurses, are trying to hold educational requirements of their profession way up. The other, practical nurses, want them loosened somewhat. It has been a bitter struggle.

At Another Hotel. But there is another hotel. There we find more insurance men and osteopaths, chiropractors, beauty doctors and others trying to make certain of the defeat of the bill desired by the physicians we met a while ago. Here, also, we bump into a half dozen determined-looking men who are too exuberant. They come from the union labor lobby, which carries with an ambitious program of child-labor reform, and who are ready to take the fight to the State Board of Education. Leaving against a nearby return are two railroad officials with their coats and a former State Senator employed by mining interests who have called the coffee lid down on much of the labor program.

The crowd, milling in a blue haze

Legislation by and for the Lobbyists Is the Product Today at Jefferson City

Small Class or Local Interest Measures Flood Both Houses—Members Always Have
"Agents" Tugging at Sleeves.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—Although the State Constitution declares that all government is instituted "solely for the good of the whole people" and in another breath forbids the Legislature to enact local or special laws, the bulk of the time that body in the session now about to close has been monopolized by measures brought here to accomplish the special and often selfish aims of relatively small classes.

In fact, the legislation appears to have undergone such a metamorphosis from the time when it was drafted by and for the people that now it is, in a measure at least, by and for the lobbyists and legislative agents.

Some of the persons contemplated by these terms, however, are undeserving of the suspicion ordinarily attached to the legislative agents of special interests. For in self-defense the advocates of deserving progressive measures have been compelled in recent years to send benevolent lobbyists here, sometimes to push or pull reform movements through the halls created by the flood of "local and special" bills, or to endeavor to get some of that number which strike at the public good.

Hotels Crowded.

And so it has come about that throughout this Legislature, and these which have immediately preceded it for a number of years, the limited hotel capacity of Jefferson City has been tried beyond its extreme limit, to accommodate the large number of legislative seekers and supporters who come here to lobby. The hotel capacity of Jefferson City has been tried beyond its extreme limit, to accommodate the large number of legislative seekers and supporters who come here to lobby.

Without exception, anyone who had had to search through the more than 14,000 sections of statute law upon the books in Missouri prior to the convening of this Legislature would find the need for much more legislation. Yet nearly a thousand bills are introduced into the two branches of the Legislature, the House, whose membership is four hundred and one-half times as large as that of the Senate, having produced about as many bills.

Brief scrutiny of the crowds in the hotel lobbies and in the corridors and galleries of the legislative floor, the capital and a cursory examination into the legislative index of bills, however, soon tells the story of this avalanche.

Groups and More Groups.

Here is a group of physicians with all they want passed. Yonder is a knot of fire insurance men of one type or another, and a group of lawyers who want a certain bill enacted into law. On the other side of the lobby is another gathering of a different kind of insurance men who are sure that this measure would drive them out of business. So they are here to have it killed, if they can.

Seated not far away is a politician from St. Louis who has a bill affecting the rate at which charge the city made for the publication of legal notices, while over by the cigar counter is a publisher and his friends, who have come to administer a whipping note to the movement. For a night interfere with their business.

In the dining room may be observed several tables occupied solely by women. They are among the benevolent legislative agents. Some of them are trying to induce interested legislators to tighten the restrictions on child labor; others want the State to step into the oppression sometimes practiced against women in industry by providing for an 8-hour day and a minimum wage for women.

Another who has stuck to her job manfully by the way, is here to have almost a single-handed fight against St. Louis politicians who are trying to get their clutches back on the St. Louis Board of Education. Her dinner companion, who has been the less faithful and active, wants her sisters to have equal representation with men on political committees.

Two separate camps of nurses are here. One set, the registered nurses, are trying to hold educational requirements of their profession way up. The other, practical nurses, are less insistent, somewhat. It has been a bitter struggle.

At Another Hotel.

But there is another hotel. There are more insurance men and osteopaths, chiropractors, beauty doctors and others trying to make certain of the defeat of the bill drafted by the physicians to meet a white skin. Here, also, we bump into a half dozen determined-looking men who are too exuberant. They come from the union labor lobby, which came with an ambitious program of child-labor reform, mining and railroad legislation, nearly all of which has gone by the board.

Leaving against a nearby column are two railroad officials with their stout and former State Senator employed by mining interests who have called the coffin lid down on much of the labor program.

The crowd, milling in a blue haze

CECIL SAYS LEAGUE OF NATIONS MOST NEEDS PUBLICITY

If the Press Is Present, Delegates Will Be Careful About Course They Advocate, He Says.

COMING TO GIVE
'FACTS' TO AMERICA

Explains Proposal to Create Strips, Under League
Supervision, Between Nations That Fear Each Other.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Press and Politics Publishing Co., Inc., New York, and the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, March 19.—Lord Robert Cecil, who calls for America Wednesday on the majestic, declares that in his opinion what the League of Nations most needs is constructive publicity.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent had asked him: "In view of certain economic claims and points of view put forward by the French representative, M. Viviani, at the secret meeting of the League Council in February, don't you think that, had these sessions been public, such statements never would have been made?"

"I know to what you refer, and I entirely agree," Lord Robert replied. "My belief is, the more publicity the better. In secret sessions delegates are willing to advocate any course or defend any interest, which is unreasonable and unjust, placing the responsibility on their Government."

"But if they know the world press is present taking note, they would not be willing to do this. Before committing themselves in the face of world opinion they will make urgent representations to be released by their chiefs from affronting world opinion."

Not a League Missionary.

Lord Robert emphasized that he was not going to America as a missionary to advocate United States participation in the league, remarking:

"I helped draw up the covenant. I know what the league has done; I have taken part in the league deliberations. I go to tell you people the facts, but it is for you to decide what, if anything, you want to do."

He then discussed at length recent attempts of the league to bring about disarmament. He defended the proposal to create strips, say 20 miles broad, under supervision of the league, between nations which fear each other.

"These zones," he explained, "would make it far easier for the League Council to decide, in case of war, which nation was the aggressor. It would obviously be that nation which first sent soldiers into the neutral zones. In these zones ordinary civilian administration would not be interfered with, but construction of strategic railways, such as the Germans built up to the Belgian frontier, would be impossible."

Troop Obligations.

"Would acceptance of the disarmament treaty obligate America to come to Europe?" he was asked.

"Certainly not—not any more than Peru would be obliged to send troops to Turkey in event of a war," Lord Robert answered. "Regions under standing will prevent the people of one part of the world from interfering in another. Europe would be one continent, America another."

"And while on this subject, let me say of the much discussed Article 10 of the League Covenant, that it does not, in my opinion—and I helped draw it up—obligate any nation whatsoever to move a single soldier without the consent of the Government of that nation in a given case."

Opinion on Ruhr.

Asked about his opinion regarding league intervention in the Ruhr, Lord Robert said: "In my view the league, being a body already in existence and having permanent machinery, is best adapted to settle this dispute. Moreover, the league is a continuing body which is able to make modifications of the settlement when needed, and these are obviously necessary for the present at this moment can be definite."

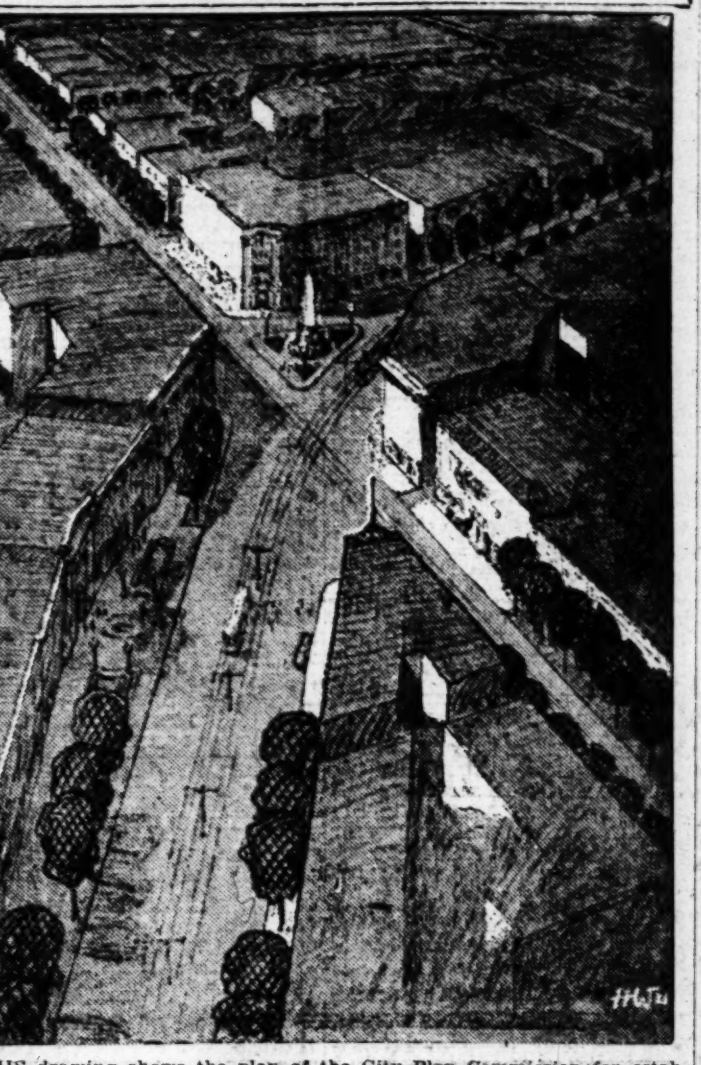

"However, whether this is the moment for reference to the league, with France and other Powers opposed, is another matter. I do not believe it is. I have much sympathy for France, which has been invaded twice with living memory, and her demand for security as well as reparations is entirely understandable."

Johnson in Europe, "for Rest."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 19.—United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson arrived here yesterday on the steamer George Washington from New York. Johnson said he had come to Europe to rest and not to investigate. The Senator left last evening for Paris, where he will visit Italy and England, starting on his return trip home June 7.

Proposed Traffic Center Plan at Grand and Gravois Under Bond Issue

This drawing shows the plan of the City Plan Commission for establishing a traffic center at Gravois avenue and Grand Boulevard, when the widening of Gravois avenue, as authorized under the bond issue, is completed. Gravois is to be widened to 100 feet, from the present width of 60 feet, between Park avenue and Grand. The cost is estimated at approximately $1,246,000, and the city's share, voted in the bond issue, is $390,000.

CREDIT UNION BILL NOW IN LEGISLATURE

Elimination of "Loan Sharks" Said to Be One Result of Movement in Other States.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—Credit unions for Missouri similar to those in successful operation in Massachusetts, North Carolina and other states are provided for in a bill introduced in the Legislature by Senator Ralph of St. Louis County. The bill places the unions, which are cooperative associations of not fewer than seven members each, promoting thrift and providing members with credit facilities, under the supervision of the Department of Finance.

In North Carolina, where the credit union movement is said to be the most advanced, the bill provides for the Department of Agriculture, in New York and Massachusetts, where it is industrial in character, credit unions are under the direction and control of the Commissioner of Banks. The elimination of "loan sharks" is said to be one of the results of the establishing of credit unions in these and other states where similar laws now are operative.

The credit union movement, according to the sponsors of the Missouri measure, is national in scope, with bills now pending in a number of State Legislatures. Among those interested in the law here are Paul W. Brown, Charles Nagel, former secretary of Commerce and Labor, St. Louis, and Jewell Mayer, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, Jefferson City.

Shares of stock in the credit union, the bill provides, shall not exceed the par value of $10; there shall not be fewer than five directors, with annual meetings in January each year; they may receive savings of members in payment of shares of stock or on deposit; may take loans to members at reasonable rates of interest; may invest funds on deposit in savings, State and national banks and trust companies.

U. S. REFUSES TO CUT BILL FOR ARMY OF OCCUPATION

Note Presented to Allies Accepts in Principle Plan for 12 Annual Installments.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 19.—A refusal by the United States to accept reduction of its bill for the expenses of the American army of occupation by the value of the German ships seized in American ports, was presented today to the allied representatives in conference here on the reimbursement question by Eliot Wadsworth, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Reimbursement of the $255,000,000 expense, in 12 annual installments, of possible German reparations payments, which the allies proposed, was accepted in principle. It was stated, but Wadsworth made it plain that the American view was that the bill should be paid and it should not be the concern of the United States whether it was met out of German payments or otherwise.

The allies' representatives called a separate meeting for tomorrow at which they will try to evolve another proposition which will be given Mr. Wadsworth Thursday.

The French semi-official version of the present stage of negotiations is that the proposed 12 annual installments would be paid out of future possible reparations funds, ahead of any other division among the allies, but whether this priority should apply only to future German cash payments or should apply also to merchandise is still an unsettled point.

Wadsworth also raised the question as to what would be done if a moratorium were granted Germany, and whether the allies would arrange to make the American army payments even if German payments were not received or were insufficient. Wadsworth, it was added, made certain reservations regarding the method of reimbursement proposed by the allies and asked for certain guarantees.

DR. GRANT SAYS PERMANENCE OF MARRIAGE DEPENDS ON LOVE

Clergyman Takes Issue With Recent Sermon on Divorce by Bishop Manning.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Quoting from the recent sermon on divorce in which Bishop Manning said: "The teaching that marriage should last only while love lasts, means in reality that marriage does not exist at all," the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, addressing his congregation in the church of the Ascension, said yesterday:

"I never heard such an expression of such despair, of such falsehood."

"If you read that backwards," he declared, "it means that after marriage love doesn't exist, and if you are to dissolve marriage, because love does not exist, there would not be any marriage."

Declaring that Bishop Manning's statement could only mean that "marriage is a loveless affair," Dr. Grant continued:

"What a hideous prospect for some of us! What will hold the family together? Money, perhaps; it seems to hold some families together, but everybody cannot marry money. What then? Children, perhaps, will hold the family together, but everybody has not children, and many parents are not deterred from leading their own lives by the fact that they have children."

"We can only depend upon the permanence and sanctity of marriage if we put in and keep in the sacred gift of mankind called 'love.'"

Russia Shoots Government Crafters.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

MOSCOW.—Executioners' rifles are beginning to crack in the Soviet Government's campaign to weed out "liberal" and "bourgeois" elements from government institutions. At one trial in Moscow three members of the Railway Administration Department were found guilty of having turned over government money to their own use, and were ordered to be shot. One had succeeded in smuggling the profits to England, and had a heavy deposit in London. The Soviet Government hopes to recover.

LET PLAZA PLAN STAND AS VOTED, ENGINEER ARGUES

Bartholomew Ascribes Selfish Motives to Those Who Would Locate Courthouse Near Old Site.

NAMES ADVANTAGES IN GROUPING SCHEME

Departure From This Ideal,
He Says, Would Destroy Setting for Memorial in Soldiers' Honor.

The Memorial Plaza and public building group plan, as submitted in the bond issue election, will be disrupted if any of the buildings in the proposed group are put on sites other than in the plaza, Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, declared yesterday in answer to interests opposing erection of the Courthouse on Twelfth boulevard, between Market and Chestnut streets.

"There is no issue at the present time," he said. "The vote of the citizens at the bond issue election Feb. 9 was the mandate to carry out a civic center at the site specifically proposed in the election and on the ballot."

He declared those who would now abandon the present plan had no adequate counter proposal, asserting "they are actuated by selfish motives and would selfishly ignore the interests of the community, expressed at the election, purely for their individual gain."

Three separate items of the $87,272,300 bond issue authorized for public improvements are involved in the general civic center plan—the $4,000,000 Memorial Plaza project, including a Memorial Building, $5,000,000 for a Municipal Auditorium, and $4,000,000 for a new Courthouse.

As advocated in the bond issue campaign, the plaza would offer a site for the Courthouse at Twelfth and Market, and a site for the Municipal Auditorium on two small city blocks fronting Market street, immediately west of the Municipal Courts Building. The proposed plaza would cover 10 blocks, fronting the Municipal Court and the City Hall.

The City Improvement Association, including property owners in the vicinity of the present Courthouse on Broadway, between Market and Chestnut, is opposing erection of the new Courthouse on any site other than one in the vicinity of the present building.

Steps to Eliminate Flaws.

A measure directing condemnation of the plaza site now is pending in the Board of Aldermen, but probably will be amended as a legal point has been raised as to whether the city could erect public buildings on land condemned for plaza use. The courts have ruled land thus obtained could be used only for the purpose for which condemned. Steps are being taken by the legal department to eliminate any flaws in the measure.

Bartholomew, in a statement yesterday, pointed out there were many advantages in the public building group scheme, such as centralization of public business, adequate architectural setting for each building, provision of an adequate plaza for public gatherings, economy in purchase of sites, economy in operation, accessibility for the greatest number of people, rather than private interests, and greater benefit to the whole community.

Location of the Auditorium and Courthouse in the plaza would assure greater economy in operation, he said, as the buildings would be supplied with light, heat and power by the municipal service plant to be built from bond issue funds at Twelfth street and Clark avenue. If placed elsewhere, service plants would have to be installed in the buildings.

Special advantages of putting the Auditorium in the group, he said, are access by street car and automobile, ample parking space for automobiles, imposing location and proximity to hotels and railroads. Referring to the Courthouse, he recalled that the city owned the greater part of the block proposed as the Courthouse site, which would minimize the cost of the site, and the building would be near the downtown office buildings. It would have an imposing setting, facing west on the plaza.

Extra Site Would Be Costly.

Purchase of a Courthouse site in the vicinity of the present Courthouse would require approximately $1,250,000 of the $4,000,000 authorized for the project, Bartholomew said, and heat and lighting equipment would increase this to about $1,400,000. This would leave only $2,600,000 available for the building, instead of $4,000,000, if the building is erected on the plaza.

He denied the contention that the courthouse would impair values of property in that district, declaring single public or educational buildings do not enhance property values. He referred to the district adjacent to the city hall and Municipal Courts Building as an example. Values in commercial buildings are determined by traffic and not by the location of public buildings, he said.

Location of the Auditorium and Courthouse in the plaza would assure greater economy in operation, he said, as the buildings would be supplied with light, heat and power by the municipal service plant to be built from bond issue funds at Twelfth street and Clark avenue. If placed elsewhere, service plants would have to be installed in the buildings.

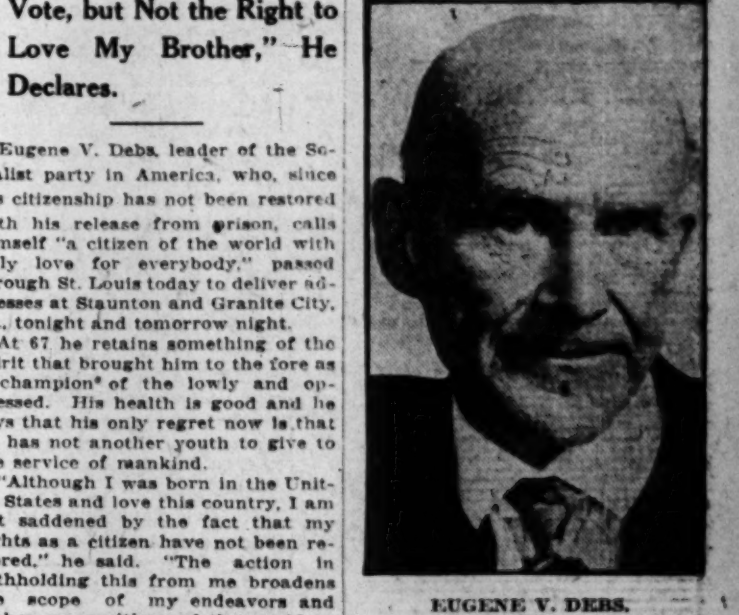

Work Physician for Senator.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Secretary of the Interior, Work, who was a practicing physician and surgeon before he entered President Harding's Cabinet, departed for Rochester, Minn., today, to attend Senator Nicholas of Colorado, who is seriously ill at the Mayo Hospital. It was stated at the Interior Department that Dr. Work may be asked to perform an operation on Nicholas.

things and a great flood of erroneous opinion and misunderstanding flows over them. The people say saying it cannot be done, but the work soon will be above the flood, the structure of friendly intercourse between men will rise to bridge the differences that now lead to war and destruction."

Every American ought to rejoice at the prospect of a great humanity that is bound to come out of this welter of war, said Debs, and he would doubt that this must come as something for his life.

His Plan for World Peace.

"What America needs to do is to sink every infernal instrument of destruction and go to Europe with arms outstretched in love and bearing flowers," he said with beaming smile, "but so-called 'Christian' action would disarm them over there, and then would come peace. We would be better prepared with a clear conscience and clean hands as an obstacle to the draft. It is not true, it never will be, because it is inhuman and unnatural."

"I am a follower of Jesus Christ, but I hate the church that pretends to represent Him. Christ did not advocate war, but called 'Christian' nations do. I challenge anyone to show me in history a single instance where the people of a nation ever destroyed the instruments of war. It is not true, it never will be, because it is inhuman and unnatural."

He believes like Napoleon, when the latter bitterly exclaimed as he stood on the coast of St. Helena looking out to sea: "War is the trade of savages and barbarians."

And he is always happy, because he has the spirit that caused "Tim, in Dickens' 'Christmas Carol' to exclaim, 'God bless us, every one!'"

Debs has been many times the Socialist candidate for President. He was convicted at Cleveland, O., during the World War, on a charge of violating the Espionage Act, in that his speeches against war were taken as an obstruction of the draft. His 10-year sentence was commuted by President Harding, Feb. 12, 1921. He served about two years of the term in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta.

SENATE PREPARING TO MAKE REDUCTIONS IN APPROPRIATIONS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—In an effort to reduce appropriations to approximately the estimated State revenues for the biennial period of 1933 and 1934, the Senate Committee on Appropriations is preparing amendments to the contingency bill passed by the House with the expectation of striking out between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. Because of delays occasioned by the excess of appropriations in the House bills, it appears doubtful that the Legislature will complete its work before the end of the week.

The Senate committee amendments have been agreed upon for submission to the Senate, reducing the allotment for general teachers' training from $236,000 to $200,000 and for teachers' training aid in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph from $180,000 to $150,000, and providing that both should be taken from the State school fund instead of the general revenue fund. Under amendments offered in the House by Baltes of Shannon County, when the bill was pending here, these appropriations were from the revenue fund.

It also is understood the committee will strike out an appropriation of $249,000 for dragging inter-county road roads and that the total of all cuts will be fully $1,500,000.

It is thought doubtful if the Senate will be ready to take the action before tonight, and it is probable that fully a day will be taken in its consideration. Other amendments have yet to be passed, however, sufficient to make the Legislature keep the Legislature in session until Friday night and possibly until Saturday.

But French Ducal Family Spent Imposing Sum to Recover Their Name.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PARIS, March 15.—A laundress of Saint-Leu-d'Ouvrille acquired a distinguished old mansion in Chartres in 1914 as a gift from an elderly beau, and thereupon set herself as "La Duchesse de Tremouille, Princesse de Talmont." She signed official papers and was known publicly by the title until now after about six years of judicial red tape, the real Duchesse de Tremouille has succeeded in getting a court judgment against her. She must pay 1 franc damages and abandon the name.
Her own name is Augustine Noel, but before it was established by the Court as her own she was known on the records as "Madame calling herself Duchesse de Tremouille" against the Duchesse de Tremouille.
The difficulties in relieving the laundress of the aristocratic titles arose from the nature of her defense. "I was born in Cuba, my parents were murdered during an insurrection and all the records destroyed. My name is Tremouille. Can you disprove it?"
When inquiry revealed that the parish of Jora in Cuba, where she said she was baptized, did not exist, she explained that it had been incorporated in another parish after the Spanish-American War. When they finished investigating this, she told them another story, and the investigation had to be recommenced. Finally cost the ducal family of Tremouille an imposing sum to recover the family name and 1 franc damages.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

HAIR Often Ruined by Careless Washing
Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.
The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.
Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup of glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rises out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dust, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.
You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.
Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bites—rub it on all sorts. Musterole falls to deliver results. 25c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

WEBSTER GROVES AND MAPLEWOOD PRIMARIES

Aldermanic and Mayoralty Candidates to Be Chosen in Suburbs Tomorrow.

Primary elections for councilmanic and mayoralty nominations will be held in Webster Groves and Maplewood tomorrow. While factional politics sometimes develops party politics occasionally does not enter into these contests. The method in both suburbs is for candidates to file their declarations. The two receiving the highest vote for each office are nominated.
Marshall B. Peterson, present Mayor and a real estate dealer, and J. H. Chipman, vice president and treasurer of the Wiles-Chipman Lumber Co., are unopposed as candidates for the mayoralty in Webster Groves. Four councilmanic are to be nominated. The candidates are: Louis F. Booth and Berton Foster, incumbents, and Bernard C. Edmunds, Theodore J. Heath, Harry W. Menges and Clarence A. Reichardt.

Maplewood Candidates.
In Maplewood, John D. Schuster, present Mayor, and a lawyer; Eugene Burks, Police Judge, and H. J. Le Faivre, who is connected with a St. Louis clothing store, are running for the office of Mayor. The following eight are candidates for four councilmanic nominations: Otto L. Riek, incumbent; Albert E. Hall, George J. Hamel, P. P. Kasper, Alva E. Middleton, Albert Renkel, William T. Stephens and Theodore W. Weber.
The municipal elections in Webster Groves, Maplewood, University City and Clayton will be April 3, the date of the St. Louis election. There is no primary in University City. Tonight is the end of the period for filing nonpartisan declarations of candidacy and few contests have developed so far. The following incumbents are unopposed candidates for re-election to their respective offices: Mayor Warren C. Flynn, an insurance man; Marshal, George Ward; Police Judge, Artillus A. Ladd, who is also Justice of the Peace; Collector, Patrick H. Powers, and Alderman W. W. Butts of the First Ward.

Woman Candidate.
Mrs. J. C. Estes, said to be the first woman candidate for municipal office in the county, and Arthur C. Ebbs have filed for aldermanship from the Second Ward, while this office from the Third Ward is sought by Deputy Sheriff Bert Belleville, incumbent, and William Taylor. University City voters will pass on a proposed $470,000 bond issue for parks and schools and on a proposal for extending the city limits to the west and north in the northwestern section of the town.
Clayton is to elect five Aldermen and a Police Judge, but only one aldermanic candidate has filed so far, there being about 10 days yet for filing.
The voters will act on a proposed $185,000 bond issue for a new school on De Mun avenue, in the Hi-Pointe district.

BRITISH PEERAGE AND STAGE REPRESENTED IN DIVORCE COURT

Lady Chichester and Lady Hermione Gordon-Lennox Among Those Bringing Action.
LONDON, March 18.—Some of the best known names in the peerage and the theatrical world will figure in London divorce courts this week. Today Lady Chichester will ask for a divorce from Sir Edward George Chichester, having already obtained a decree of restitution of conjugal rights which he has not obeyed.
Another notable case will be the hearing of the petition of Lady Hermione Gordon-Lennox for divorce from Lord Esme Charles Gordon-Lennox. She is a daughter of Baron De Ramsey and a cousin of former Colonial Minister Winston Churchill. Her husband is the son of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon.
The stage will be represented in the courts by Midge Compton, the actress, who is suing the comedian, George Greas.

MAN DIES AT UNION STATION

Patrick J. Moynihan Had Just Returned From Memphis.
Patrick J. Moynihan, 64 years old, a plumbing and building contractor, residing at 351 Evans avenue, died at Union Station at 7:30 a. m. yesterday, a few minutes after returning from a business trip to Memphis.
He complained to a station employee of feeling ill and was taken in a wheel chair to the matron's room, where he died within a few moments after his son, Miles, found him. The latter had hurried to Union Station when his father failed to get off at the Tower Grove Station, as expected. Members of the family said he had not been in ill health for years. Moynihan, a native of Cork, Ireland, came to St. Louis 45 years ago and soon entered the contracting business. His widow, four sons and three daughters, survive. The funeral will be held Wednesday.

HOWAT NOT ALLOWED TO SPEAK

By the Associated Press.
CHARLOTTE, Pa., March 18.—Alexander Howat, former president of the Kansas United Mine Workers, who came into Western Pennsylvania several weeks ago with a "protest" against the union's international officers, was not permitted to address a meeting of miners here yesterday.
Patrick Fagin, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, protested when the chairman called for the meeting to order, declaring that no meeting of union miners could be held without the sanction of the union, and this meeting had no such sanction. He was greeted by vigorous shouts of Howat's friends, who demanded that Howat be heard. After some 10 minutes of confusion, policemen cleared the stage, let down the curtain and ordered the audience to go home.

Out in the state of Washington, under the shadow of the stately Mt. Ranier, stretches the famous Puyallup Valley, the world's most famous berry belt. There fruit is grown such as we in the Middle West rarely see.
Right in the center of this treasured land has been built the immaculate Puyallup Kitchens that turn out Paul's Preserves. Their one purpose of existence is to put up the finest preserves in the world. They are doing it!
We, in the Kroger Stores, have a feeling of satisfaction in every jar that goes over our counters. By May Christie.

LX.—BEWARE!

THE CHARACTERS.
CYNTHIA BRANT, country girl, living in a New York apartment she has inherited from an old lady she once befriended.
RUBY ALLISON, her gay and frivolous friend.
ALEX KERR, Ruby's fiancé.
AUNT ELLEN, who keeps house for Cynthia.
MURRAY STEWART, for whom Cynthia is working as a stenographer.
MRS. WAKELAND, friend and rich client of Stewart, who takes a fancy to Cynthia.
VIOLET JERROLD, friend of Murray's.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

CYNTHIA'S next partner was Cyril, the young man whom Violet Jerrold had avoided introducing to her.

But Cyril wasn't quite a fool, and had enough mind of his own —and quite enough good taste—to want to dance with Cynthia.

"Fine floor," he volunteered, as they swung out together on the polished parquet.

Then: "But where have I seen you? Was it at Lake Placid last January, with Mrs. Wakeland and the skiing crowd? Or was it at the Riviera Club the other night? Or what?"

"I lived in the country last winter," faltered the girl, a shade embarrassed.

"Oh, that's great! There's no place like the country, after all. I suppose you're keen on hunting, eh? I rode with the Fyfield Hounds till my brute came a most ghastly cropper, and they practically picked me up with blotting paper and shoved me into bed for three darned months."

"No, I don't hunt," Cyril looked puzzled.

"How did you kill time, then? Got a little runabout, of course? You're a good dancer, and I suppose a first-class bridge? And there's always golf."

A shadow had fallen on Cynthia's pretty face. To herself she was saying dreadingly:

"I'm an impostor in this world—I'm out of place! I haven't got the moral courage to tell this dashing soldier that last winter I was the village dressmaker, making aprons for the butcher's wife and clothing for the postman's."

She was a supersensitive young girl. It did not dawn on her that society folk are so weary with the continuous round that they would consider her "amusing" and "fresh" and "a new sensation."

Her third dance was with a stout and jolly Major, who understood that she was shy, and soon put her at her ease. Indeed, he tried to flirt outrageously with her, telling her she was the prettiest girl he had ever seen, and she must meet his wife, and come to the chess parties at their home.

He was a nice fellow, so that her shyness fled.

At half-past 11 she went into the huge dining tent, where supper was set out.

It was a scene of great gaiety. Mrs. Wakeland's party occupied a table at the end, seated for 10.

Three hundred people were seated at the other tables, some in twos and some in twelves.

Violet, too, did her best to absorb Murray Stewart, who was seated between herself and Cynthia Brant. On Cynthia's other side was the fatuous Cyril, on flirtation bent, but finding the little country girl a trifle difficult.

"I say, do talk to me a bit!" he begged her. "That Stewart chap has taken up most of your time, and it isn't fair. Besides, Violet Jerrold's been about him, and it doesn't do to cross the little lady, as you'll soon find out. And anyway—here he lowered his tones to a mysterious whisper—"Murray Stewart's a fraud, pretending to be so quiet and prim, but all the time he's as gay as any of the rest of us, and a bit of a Don Juan and a lady-killer, as you'll soon discover, if you watch him and his goings-on!"

TOMORROW—RUBY ALONE.

Home-Making Helps

Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home
By WANDA BARTON

Some New and Easy Ways to Perform Household Tasks.

NEW ways of performing old tasks often make work easier and save time, steps and temper, not forgetting the youth and good looks of the housewife.

Why should we do our work in the old, hard way when there is a new and easy way of doing it? But habit has such a terrific hold upon some persons, and family traditions bind others so tightly, that few women, comparatively speaking, are able to grasp and use new ideas in kitchen efficiency. Yet no one needs help more than the modern housewife, who is trying so hard to extend her mental development while her feet are still in the clasp of old-fashioned methods of performing household duties.

One progressive woman got tired of hunting up her recipes every time she wanted to cook a favorite dish. So she had a pasteboard fitted to the top of her kitchen table. Then she pasted on it neatly all of her choice recipes and had a pane of glass put over all. Now she has a table that is easily kept clean, and the recipes right under her eyes when needed. They keep perfectly clean and do not get torn in handling.

Above a baking table, whose legs fold and drop it flat against the wall, why not arrange wall shelves to hold a rolling pin, cutters, spatula, sifters, measuring cups and all the utensils used in baking. This would save a lot of wasted energy. If possible, have the flour barrel near at hand.

Devote one shelf to mills and grinders with all their extra attachments and handles, pastry bag, tubes and fancy cutters. These mechanical assistants require more cleaning, oiling, sharpening and general care than common utensils. Consequently, they should be in a separate place. If the attachments are dropped into the knife drawer or among the small utensils there may be a scramble to find them when they are needed in a hurry.

A nut-mill that screws to the side of the table is a joy, for the nuts may be chopped or ground in half the time, and cannot fly all over the floor during the process of chopping.

A small hashknife saves getting out a big chopping bowl when there is a small job to be done.

Strainers of different sizes, degrees of fineness and for different purposes are often lacking in well-fitted kitchens, and sometimes those that are there are not to be found when they are wanted. It is an excellent idea to hang all the strainers together so that the one required may be seen and selected quickly.

A pot-cover rack beside the stove is a blessing.

Glass cooking dishes are rather expensive, and should be kept on a shelf by themselves to avoid knocking or cracking them. These utensils should also be washed by themselves, in hot water with a grease-detergent, and then rinsed and dried with a clean towel. This method keeps the glass clean and shining. An experienced cook says of using the glass dishes that if they are warmed before the food is put into them they are not nearly as apt to crack.

Stainless steel vegetable knives are a first aid in keeping the cook's hands and while paring vegetables and fruits. They are worth for them. Those with white handles are pleasant to use. The blades are fork and spoon are very nice grease is apt to spurt out from the hands in cooking, or to lift covers of pans out of the oven.

Hired murderers killed Octavia Poppaea immediately married Nero. She drove about Rome in a golden chariot, with horses whose feet were shod with gold. A thousand slaves accompanied her in a procession. All of Rome hated her, yet she still fascinated them.

This woman influenced Nero to such a degree that he murdered his mother.

Nero was going mad by this time. Poppaea batted him to new horrors to keep his mind diverted.

Finally, Poppaea was at the end of her ingenuity to keep the mad man quiet. She was in hopes that the child which was to be born to her would be a son. That might appease him.

But this cost him Rome. Galba reached Rome first and seized the throne.

Poppaea was vicious. She was cruel. She was a terrible woman, but she influenced men's destinies—even after death. It is only for her political position, her vast power in Rome, that she can be classed as a heroine.

So, the first woman's club in the United States, was founded in New York in 1852.

Types of Men Every Girl Meets

THE FLATTERER

He's Eligible Only When He Is Sincere

By Betty Vincent

(Copyright, 1923.)

EVERY girl likes him—the flatterer. She can't help liking him because he always says such charming things about her. And while he may enlarge and even add certain graces to her personality, there is always a grain of truth behind his flattery.

But how shall she take this young man?

That is the question which bothers the girl.

Does he mean what he says, or is he just stringing her along because he thinks she wants him to say all these nice things about her?

It all depends!

Flatterers, like egotists, run in pairs. There are jolly, good flatterers and jolly, foolish ones. There is a certain type of young man who really means all he says. When he tells his girl she has the most beautiful eyes in the world and the sweetest smile of any girl he ever met, it means it. And because he says this with a certain amount of sincerity the keen girl knows he really cares for her.

But the foolish flatterer who pops sentimental phrases and age-old compliments which have been handed down from father to son always expects a kiss or an extra dance for his lip praises. Back of all this flattery there is always a reason. And it is up to the girl to find out why this young man flatters her so and decide whether his remarks are really worth while listening to.

As far as the matrimonial market is concerned, the flatterer is eligible when he is sincere. Many men use flattery as their winning bait. That is their idea of making love. They reason that before you propose to a girl you must let her know how much you think of her. Perfectly logical, isn't it? Therefore the young man tells this girl of his choice that he admires her soft voice. He tells her that he always liked a girl with jet black hair and that he admires the tilt of her nose and so on and so on until the night of the proposal.

But remember, this man's flattery always "rings true." He doesn't ask to be kissed or expect an invitation to Sunday night tea the moment he has made a flattering remark. He tells you these interesting and pleasant things about yourself because he really seems to believe them himself.

But there is another type of flatterer who is not in the matrimonial market and has no intention of venturing in that direction. He is the well-known "confirmed bachelor." There isn't a soul on earth who knows as much about flattery as this natural-born bachelor. He may be 25, or 40, or 50, or 60. But he always has a chance of saying "pretty things" and running.

But he usually makes a point of gaining a kiss or some special dances before he runs! And that is how the clever girl can always spot the flatterer. The more he flatters the further away they are from a proposal or even a platonic friendship. He tells her the same lovely things over and over until they cease to thrill her and she realizes they are flattery about in a circle.

Flattery is by no means a thing to avoid in young men. It is one of the old pillars of love-making, leading directly to the little church around the corner from your home. But be sure it is sincere flattery coming directly from the heart of the young man.

The Bravery of Hooty and Mrs. Hooty

By Thornton W. Burgess

Love is brave. It conquers fear. And never fails with danger near.

—Old Mother Nature.

FARMER BROWN'S BOY had climbed up to the nest of Hooty the owl. Neither Hooty nor Mrs. Hooty had been about when he had started to climb that tree. Both were away hunting food for the two hungry babies in the nest. Farmer Brown's Boy had seen them go and this had been the chance he wanted to climb up. You see, he was very anxious to see those young Owls close.

Of course, the young Owls heard him climbing that tree and they began to hiss and snap their bills. When his head appeared above the edge of the nest they were sitting on the further side and their little yellow eyes fairly glared. "They may have been afraid," but they didn't show it. They hissed and snapped their bills more than ever and Farmer Brown's Boy laughed right out.

It tickled him to see them standing up for their chance he wanted to climb up in fear, as so many other little people would have done.

It tickled him so that he laughed aloud. His laugh ended in a shout of startled surprise. He had been hit a hard blow on the back of his head! It was so unexpected that it was a wonder he did not lose his balance and fall. He had heard no sound. There had been no warning whatever. Of course, he instantly turned to see who had struck him from behind. But he didn't see anybody. Not a soul was to be seen.

But when he turned his head back it was just in time to see a great, broad-winged bird heading straight for a tree just beyond. Then he knew what had happened. He knew that Mrs. Hooty had returned, and discovered him at that nest. She had come from behind, and without hesitating a second had struck him with her great claws and then passed right on over his head, so that by the time he had turned to look behind she was in front of him, and so he had not seen her.

"My!" said Farmer Brown's Boy to himself. "It's a lucky thing for me that I have on a thick cap. Those claws certainly would have hurt me but for that. Gracious, here comes Hooty!"

Sure enough, Hooty was coming and it was plain to see that Hooty was very much in earnest. If he was afraid he didn't show it. On silent wings he came straight at Farmer Brown's Boy and struck, passing on and over, just as Mrs. Hooty had done. Farmer Brown's Boy ducked just in time and Hooty struck him on seen that she, in her turn, intended to strike.

Of course, the young Owls heard him climbing that tree.

Farmer Brown's Boy yelled. She paid no heed to that yell. She came straight on, and once more Farmer Brown's Boy was fated to duck.

"Well," said he to himself, "I'm up here and I don't think I want to come up here a second time. I'll just take one of these babies along home with me and see what kind of a pet it will make."

So in spite of the hissing and snapping of the young Owl, and all his efforts to use his little sharp claws, and despite the blows of Hooty and Mrs. Hooty, Farmer Brown's Boy took one of the young Owls and began to climb down. And all the way down he had to watch out to protect his face from the great clawed Hooty and Mrs. Hooty. You may be sure that he was glad when he reached the ground.

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

How Poppaea Used Publicity to Become Mistress of Rome

It seems incredible, but it is an actual fact, that in the very beginning of the very first century of the Christian era a woman lived in Rome who knew the power of publicity. She knew every trick of creating popular interest and bringing herself before the public eye.

Of course, there were no newspapers then. There was not even a 3-centing press. But this shrewd woman knew the power of publicity without such aids. She knew that "it pays to advertise."

Poppaea—that is her name—was rich, well born and very beautiful. Her eyes were the green of jade. Her hair was burnished gold. Her figure was superb.

She knew all this and made the most of her charms. Poppaea saw to it that all Rome knew she took a bath every day in a beautiful marble tub and that 250 gallons of milk were brought in huge urns and poured into this bath in the beautiful marble courtyard.

Poppaea employed mystery as an aid also. She never appeared in public unless she was heavily veiled in many bright-colored veils.

This gorgeous creature was the talk of Rome. All men fell under her spell.

With cold-blooded judgment, disregarding love as a factor, Poppaea married Rufus Crispinus, a man of high rank, wealth and importance. He worshipped his beautiful wife, who had only married him in order to meet those of power in Rome.

Very soon Poppaea fell really in love—but not with Crispinus. She fell in love with Otho, the handsome and influential friend of Nero.

The fact that Poppaea divorced Crispinus and in the greatest splendor married Otho, only added to her fascination to the Roman public.

The marriage of Otho and Poppaea was one for real love, or what seemed real love. Otho could talk of nothing but his lovely wife to his friend, Nero.

So constantly did he rave of Poppaea's beauty and charms that Nero went to see his friend's bride.

The all-powerful Nero no sooner saw Poppaea's beauty than he, too, fell in love with her.

Date and Walnut Cake

USE 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 pinch of salt, 1 package dates, 1 cup boiling water, 1/2 cup walnut meats.

Cream butter and add egg beaten well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add soda to boiling water and pour over the dates, stirred and cut up in small pieces. To the butter, sugar and egg mixture add alternately the flour and the water from the dates. Last add the dates and nut meats and bake in a large shallow pan in a slow oven about 45 minutes. Cut into convenient portions and cover with whipped cream slightly sweetened.

SCALLOPED OYSTERS

PARBOIL six potatoes, sliced; butter baking dish; put layer of cracker crumbs on bottom, then a layer of potatoes and layer of oysters. Season with salt, pepper, parsley, and bits of butter; then another layer of cracker crumbs, potatoes, oysters, and so on, until dish is full. The top layer to be of cracker crumbs. Moisten well with milk and bake 30 minutes.

OYSTER ROAST

PUT one-half pint water in a saucepan with a lump of butter, salt and pepper. When it comes to a boil drop in one pint of oysters. Have a few slices of bread and butter ready in a shallow dish and the instant the oysters boil up pour over the bread. Garnish with parsley and serve instantly.

By MME. FRANCES.

The Famous Creator of Fashions.

SPRING openings may come and go, but the chifon dance frock continues to be smiled upon by the woman who knows.

I have many clients who come in saying, "I want something different. No, don't show me chifons, I've always had a chifon and I'm determined to find something else that's just as becoming."

But almost inevitably this same client will go out having ordered at least one chifon dance frock. It only takes a glance at the making of the falls of her graceful chifon frock flowing about her ankles—to be convinced. "It's too charming to pass by," the client murmurs, as she looks at it. Then it only takes a short session in the fitting room, a look at herself in the full-length mirror, and she orders one like the manikin wore.

Of course, she may decide to have color, or some slight detail changed. Green may be more becoming to her than pink, and any of the pastel shades are lovely in chifon. There are interesting uses of color, as, for instance, ecru and yellow together. This is smart for spring and is seen in a model of ecru chifon posed over a yellow satin foundation. The skirt is cut in deep points and trimmed in narrow bands of royal blue. Then there are heliotrope and gray and coral, not to mention effective models, which use two shades of green together.

I'm showing one of the latter in deep green with interesting diamond-shaped insets of lighter green pleated chifon about the neckline. Sometimes a narrow band of fur offers striking contrast as the only trim on a chifon model. I recently designed one of gray, a narrow band of brown fur topping the little cape which dropped from shoulders to hemline. The skirt was long and full and the frock was worn with simple slippers and stockings.

The chifon dance frock here are all in delicate pastel tints, except the second from left, with fringed hemline and long trains, which is of gold-embroidered chifon in the new mountain haze tone, with side trains of rich purple.

Mountain haze is the deep purplish-pink that you see over a mountainside a bloom with wild flowers. This color is lovely in the evening, and equally attractive in daytimes clothes and sport things, for which it is also favored.

Notice the novel back treatment of the gown just mentioned. It, like the other frocks displayed here, shows a decided tendency toward a bodice fitted closely to the lines of the figure. This note appears in all the spring frocks. While the bodices here are all décolleté and, of course, show no fitted sleeve treatment, they all pinch in close to the figure about the waist, showing that becoming wrinkle line which is particularly attractive to the woman of slender, tapering waist.

The one at the left is particularly lovely in its choice of sheer lavender chifon worn over a silver cloth slip and trimmed in velvet wisteria and ostrich plumes of the same deeper tone. The deep scalloped about the hemline are stitched in silver.

Slips of metal cloth are finding increased popularity. This has come since the lovely new metal cloth was introduced. It is as pliable as satin, hence it never gives that stiff, unattractive look to a frock, nor does it tarnish as did the old metal cloth. A recent bridal party made use of these attractive underslips, the bridesmaids being gowned in the sheers of ecru organza worn over gold cloth and finished at the girdle with sashes of narrow brown velvet ribbon.

The lamp-shade headdress worn with this frock is particularly becoming to the woman who is tall and slender enough to wear a brim of fairly large dimensions. It is of several layers of green tulle, wired at the brim and accented with a bit of either side. The head band above is of silver ribbon, and the blossoms of this design appear in the soft wavy hair over the shoulders.

Headresses continue to assume vogue for ornaments at much interested attention. In the course, they change in fashion, they change everything else. The fact that they remain as popular as ever is shown by the silver in hanging panels and the green chifon with the green chifon.

A recent ball in Paris, given by the elite, brought out the headress fashions. They were simpler, it seemed, and more in line. ## An Old Piano

By Winifred Black

THE old piano—I believe it really understands. There's something especially sweet about its notes just now, and even the growl of old bass, which hasn't been exactly what it should be for years, is better. It has stood in a corner of the great house ever since the Beauty ran off with the good-looking polo player who wasn't just exactly—don't you know—

The Beauty had a lovely voice, and her father was as proud of that as he was of his daughter's beauty.

He sent her to Italy to study, and he went over and took her to Paris and to London to all the great matters.

Oh, no, she was never to sing in public—except for charity—but her lovely voice was a gift from above which must not be neglected.

And for a wonder the masters and mistresses and the señoras did not spoil the voice—it came home as sweet and pure and beautiful as ever.

Something wistful about it there was—something that spoke of youth and spring flowers, and lush green meadows and foolish little woolly lambs, and everything that is young and hopeful and a little shy.

What It Used to Sing.

And she sang and sang—all kinds of songs. Opera at first, to show that she could do it—trills and runs and roudels. And then little French songs, especially the one about the garden and the white roses, and one, too, about a prisoner shut in a gloomy cell—and the sound of the Angelus bells drifting in to him in the dark.

Old English ballads that made you think of English roses and English hawthorn, and fair girls and old walls with the moss growing on them.

Irish songs with the wail of the Banshee and the sobbing of the sea in them, and the strange gray towers of Ireland rising like ghosts through the soft mists—and old American songs.

Yes, she even sang "Lorena" and "Nellie Gray" and "Lillie Dale"—this was to please her father.

He sat and listened like one in a dream—his mother used to sing them to him long ago, he said.

And then one day, she was gone—in a flash.

Without once looking back, with hardly a word of farewell—gone with the man she hardly knew—ah, well, poor girl, what was that song she used to sing about Krana and his lute? She heard the lute, and couldn't resist the cruel magic of it—that's all.

And then her father died and the old house was dismantled and the old piano came to stay with the old cousin who wasn't rich enough to buy a new piano. They were always going to buy one, but somehow when the time came the money was needed somewhere else.

New Songs, Hearts and Love.

I ran in to see them the other night and while I stood in the doorway I heard the old piano.

And the elderly cousin sat by it and played and beside her stood her old husband—his black eyes shining in spite of his crown of white hair.

They were singing together—"Bonny Doon"—she in a soft, tremulous voice and he in a sturdy bass that was astonishing in its virility.

And evening after evening now they sing together—the two old people. They've hunted a book of old songs and husband is so surprised to see how well Mary can play the accompaniments and Mary had forgotten what a good voice Thomas had, and gaily and music have stepped hand in hand into the quiet old house—with the old piano.

I wonder how much the girl who used to play it in her old home would give for one hour of such peace and trust and loving serenity?

I wonder what the old piano really thinks about it all?

How to Bring Beauty Back to Chapped Hands

By LUCREZIA BORI

ONE of us can deny that it is a pleasure to use beautifying measures when we see a ready response.

With many beauty exercises, for instance, the improvement cannot be immediate, and you're often prone to grow weary and stop short of the perfection which you seek.

Of course, it's real faith that you need, and not the questioning faith that lasts for a short time and then stops to be shown before it can go on working for invisible results.

But just to keep up your faith when it's sorely tried, I like to give you beauty advice occasionally in which I can promise you prompt and pleasing results. Whenever this is the case I think the added beauty which comes with effort should be held forth as the reward. Then there's no denying the effort will be easier to make.

So when I tell you of beauty treatments to use on your hair, I can often assure you that the quick response which your hair gives will be its own reward.

So it is with your hands. Doubtless you've all had times when one fleeting glimpse at your hands was sufficient to give you a feeling of downheartedness. You saw that they were rough, instead of smooth and white, and that your nails did not bespeak the scrupulous care which you should like to have them show.

If this has happened, of course, you hastened to give them the care they should have, and presto! the well-groomed, immaculate appearance of your hands has been its own reward.

Now I'm going to give you a lotion which is a great relief in the quick improvement it brings to your hands. When winds are cold and raw, hands are very likely to grow rough and chapped and altogether unpleasant. Two applications a day of this lotion will increase the beauty of your hands by keeping them smooth and soft.

Menthol ..... 22 grains
Saloil ..... 1/2 dram
Olive oil ..... 1/2 dram
Lanolin ..... 1 1/2 ounces

If you keep this beauty treatment up, and if you take care to have your nails always in the pink of condition, your mental attitude will be better.

To my mind, nothing is so irritating and so antagonistic to a happy state of mind as rough, unkempt hands. I think often when you feel that something's wrong and you don't know what, you will find that your hands aren't smooth and soft and pleasing.

Another thing, you may find, especially when the weather is cold and windy, is that the surface of your nails is rough and shows signs of ridges that may lead to cracking. A very good remedy for this is to apply cold cream to each nail at night when you go to bed. Just touch each nail lightly with a bit of cream, rubbing the cream well over the surface so it may soak in while you're sleeping.

So easy to take care of fine Linoleum floors

THERE are hard ways to clean linoleum, and there is also an easy way to keep it in spick-and-span condition. Here are a few simple directions. Cut them out and keep them for reference:

When you wash linoleum

In the kitchen, pantry, and bathroom, where water is likely to be spilled, linoleum has to be washed frequently. Use warm, sudsy water and a good, mild soap like Ivory. Wash about a square yard at a time, rinse, and dry carefully.

Don't use alkaline soaps or scrubbing powders. They will harm any finely finished wood or linoleum. Don't allow water to stand around the edges or seams of the linoleum. Moisture may seep through, and make the floor damp.

Varnish printed linoleum

If you have printed linoleum you can make the design wear longer by varnishing it. Wash your linoleum floor and then give it two coats of colorless, elastic, waterproof varnish.

Give the varnish about twenty-four hours to dry before you walk on the floor. Renew the varnish once a year and the pattern will last indefinitely. And the fine, glossy varnished surface is easily wiped up as needed with a damp cloth.

Wax inlaid and plain linoleum

The easy way to take care of inlaid, plain, or Jaspé linoleum is to wax it. If you are getting new linoleum, wash it as soon as it is laid. Then give it two thin coats of a standard floor wax. Rub the wax thoroughly into the linoleum, and polish with a weighted brush. This smooth, polished surface is easy to keep looking its best. About all you need to do is go over it every day with a dry mop. At the doorway, and wherever the wear is heavy, you will have to renew the wax occasionally. You can take up muddy footprints with a damp cloth.

Once or twice a year you may restore the wax coating completely. That is all the refinishing the floor ordinarily will require. Under such care the linoleum actually gets better-looking. Time gives it a rich, mellowed appearance. Remember, don't use the old-fashioned scrubbing-brushes and scouring-soaps on linoleum. It's a hard way to clean, and it isn't necessary. Waxing is the better way.

MY FAVORITE STORIES
By IRVIN S. COBB.

THE AMOUNT IN SMALL CHANGE.

ONE night in the winter time Boss Clark, the famous old-time city editor of the New York Sun, called a new reporter up to his desk.
"The man who handed in the weather story forgot to get the figures on the snowfall," he said. "Go find out just how deep it is."
What he wanted the beginner to do was to call up the Weather Bureau on the telephone; but the cub, being green, asked the office joker how to proceed. The humorist handed him the space-measuring rule, which, instead of being marked with inches and feet, was spaced off into dollars and cents.
"Go over in City Hall Park where the snow is deep and smooth and measure it," he said.

The cub put on his overshoes and went. Presently he returned and marched to the chief's desk.

"Well," said Clark, "what does the snowfall come to?"

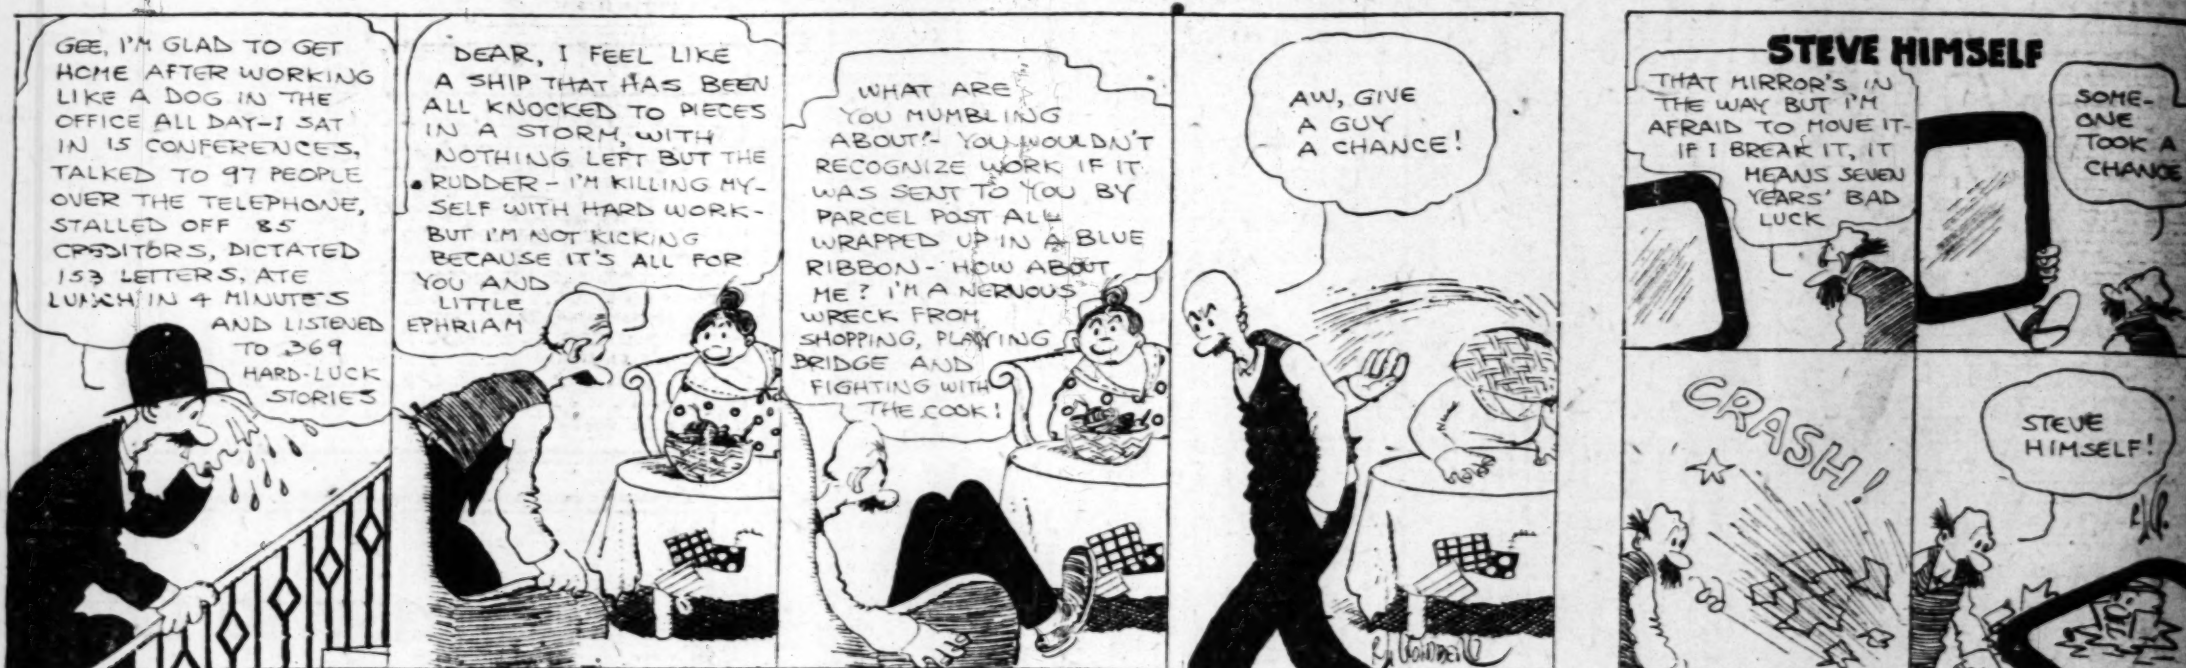

"A dollar and thirty-four cents," said the youngster.

"MARSHALL" WAS TO HAVE BEEN VICTIM

Originator of Plot Reported to Have Become Angry and Threatened Young Woman.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The Dorothy Keenan murder case took a sharp turn today, when the police began investigating a "tip" that the model had been slain after she had refused to co-operate in a plot to blackmail the mysterious "Mr. Marshall." Confidential information was received by the police to the effect that Miss Keenan had in her possession a package of letters from Marshall and that they were in her apartment the night before she was found dead in bed, with an empty chloroform bottle nearby. Miss Keenan was said to have been approached by one of her male friends with the suggestion that the letters be put to practical use to extract money from "Mr. Marshall."

"I have never done anything like that and I would never consent to such a thing now," the model was said to have replied.

The originator of the blackmail plot then was reported to have become angry and threatened Miss Keenan.

After this scene, Miss Keenan was said to have placed in her private vault at the National City Bank at least one letter. "The police said the box would be opened today."

The model was said to have told friends of the blackmail suggestion, and they informed "Mr. Marshall," who was reported to have gone to the Keenan suite the night of the murder with his secretary to get the letters.

Detectives were searching today for a hitherto unmentioned character, who was alleged to have threatened the girl and held her in fear for six months. The police picked up this clue through a former tenant of the apartment house who said the model had appealed to him for protection.

Mrs. Anna Keenan, the girl's mother, accompanied by her son and detectives, today opened her daughter's deposit box and then left the bank without making known what they had found in the vault. It was learned that the girl's jewelry had been insured by Lloyd's.

How She Became a
"Lady of the Evening"

This is the story of the girl born
Anna Keenan, who, as Dorothy King, became one of Broadway's best-known "ladies of the evening," and whose murder has turned searchlight upon her life in an effort to discover the slayer and his motives. From those who knew her best and from the records, a narrative of her life, so far as it is known, has been constructed.

By Leased Wire From the New York

Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The story of Dorothy King, as far as Broadway is concerned, began some five or six years ago. It was then her blond beauty first began to be noticed in the cafes and dance places along the gay white way.

Before that there was nothing of her life to indicate Broadway. She was Anna Keenan, a very pretty Irish girl whose parents had both been born in the old country, and who, with her two brothers and two sisters, all older than she, had been brought up on West 82nd street, between Amsterdam and Columbus avenues.

She went to the Holy Name school around the corner in West 82nd street, and was a little distinguished from the hundreds of other girls who attended classes there by no one at the school remembered there ever was such a person.

Was Married When 24.
In 1912, when she was 18, she was married to Eugene Irving O'Connell, chauffeur, who was 24 and lived at 2895 Broadway. The ceremony was performed at the Holy Name Church and the witnesses were O'Connell's brother and Anna's mother, Mary.
They set up housekeeping at 2895
